examination of Nigeria's socioeconomic structure Following the loss of his Swiss mother Stefan accompanies his Nigerian father on a poignant return to his native land seeking to bridge the emotional distance between them and understand the complex challenges facing contemporary Nigeria His mother's death becomes the emotional catalyst propelling his journey of reconnection both with his father and his father's homeland Grief is portrayed not as a debilitating force but as a transformative experience that opens pathways to deeper understanding He uses this personal pain to explore the African parenting culture that has traditionally made it difficult for sons to connect with their fathers The Chinese of Africa is not just a travel memoir or a personal grief narrative but a sophisticated sociopolitical exploration of a man who shows the problems affecting his nation and his continent and how historical forces like slavery and colonisation continue to shape African societies Stefan doesn't just describe problems affecting the Nigerian culture he tries to understand their roots and imagine workable solutions He explains how complicated social rules make it hard for fathers and sons to truly understand each other Growing up between two cultures gives him a unique view of Nigeria's challenges and leveraging his personal stories and careful observation he shows how family dynamics reflect larger social issues Through his grief hallucinations poems thoughts personal experiences and systemic analysis Stefan offers a unique perspective about himself his family his mother his nation and Nigeria's complex societal landscape He shows how personal stories can reveal larger truths about culture identity and growth This book will hook you from the very first page to the last with its breathtaking genre defying exploration that shatters expectations It is perfect for readers who crave memoirs from authors like Chris Whitaker Alison Espach and Leigh Bardugo

Spontaneous Spoken Language J. E. Miller, Regina Weinert, 1998 Jim Miller and Regina Weinert investigate syntactic structure and the organization of discourse in spontaneous spoken language Using data from English German and Russian they develop a systematic analysis of spoken English and highlight properties that hold across languages The authors argue that the differences in syntax and the construction of discourse between spontaneous speech and written language bear on various areas of linguistic theory apart from having obvious implications for syntactic analysis In particular they bear on typology Chomskyan theories of first language acquisition and the perennial problem of language in education In current typological practice written and spontaneous spoken texts are often compared the authors show convincingly that typological research should compare like with like The consequences for Chomskyan and indeed all theories of first language acquisition flow from the central fact that children acquire spoken language but learn written language

Understanding Language through Humor Stanley Dubinsky, Chris Holcomb, 2011-09-15 Students often struggle to understand linguistic concepts through examples of language data provided in class or in texts Presented with ambiguous information students frequently respond that they do not get it The solution is to find an example of humour that relies on the targeted ambiguity Once they laugh at the joke they have tacitly understood the concept and then it is only a matter of explaining why they found it funny Utilizing cartoons and jokes illustrating linguistic concepts this book makes it easy to understand these concepts while keeping the reader's attention and interest Organized like a course textbook in linguistics it covers all the major topics in a typical linguistics survey course including communication systems phonetics and phonology morphemes words phrases sentences language use discourses child language acquisition and language variation while avoiding technical terminology Journal of the Society of Arts, 1901 Journal of the Royal Society of Arts Royal Society of Arts (Great Britain), 1901 Journal of the Society of Arts Royal Society of Arts (Great Britain), 1901
