Speech and Situation T. Herrmann, 2012-12-06 The major portion of the investigations described in the present volume would never have been undertaken without the generous support of the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft German Research Society During my professorship at the University of Marburg I could not have carried on with my work in the psychology of language had it not been for the aid offered by this institution Since these experimental investigations constitute the empirical backbone of the entire argument I feel especially indebted to the Society My warm thanks are also extended to the over two thousand subjects whose willing cooperation enabled my associates and myself to collect the body of data reported in these pages I would like to thank the many parents teachers and school principals whose good will and collaboration were the prerequisites for conducting many of our experiments The book also incorporates valuable contributions by my associates insofar as my ideas and arguments bear the imprint of our joint work and discussion to an extent that makes an accurate acknowledgement of each inspiration next to impossible Giving them due credit I would like to thank my assistants the graduating students and the student aides back in Marburg and more recently in Mannheim Handbook of Communication Competence Gert Rickheit, Hans Strohner, 2008-08-27 In our everyday life communicative processes are relevant in almost all situations It is important to know whether you should say something which is adequate in the situation or whether it is better to say nothing at all Communicative competence is fundamental for a successful life in our society as it is of great importance for all areas of life Therefore it is not surprising that communicative competence is the subject of many theoretical and empirical approaches and in consequence research on this topic is diverse We focus our contributions on linguistic aspects of communication In the centre of interest are linguistic oriented performances of different forms of communicative competence language acquisition and language disorders The topics of this book concern the description of methods for studying language in the brain the interaction between language and cognition discourse acquisition of children literacy acquisition and its precursors the use and acquisition of the sign language models and training of writing and reading nonverbal communicative competence media competence communication training developmental dyslexia the treatment of stuttering and the description of language disorders Alignment in Communication Ipke Wachsmuth, Jan de Ruiter, Petra Jaecks, Stefan Kopp, 2013-11-15 Alignment in Communication is a novel direction in communication research which focuses on interactive adaptation processes assumed to be more or less automatic in humans It offers an alternative to established theories of human communication and also has important implications for human machine interaction A collection of articles by international researchers in linguistics psychology artificial intelligence and social robotics this book provides evidence on why such alignment occurs and the role it plays in communication Complemented by a discussion of methodologies and explanatory frameworks from dialogue theory it presents cornerstones of an emerging new theory of communication The ultimate purpose is to extend our knowledge about human communication as well as creating a foundation for natural
