7.6 Switch Statement

When a user wants to execute a group of statements depending upon a value of an Expression, then Switch Case is used. Each value is called a Case, and the variable is being switched ON based on each case. Case Else statement is executed if the test expression doesn't match any of the Case specified by the user.

Case Else is an optional statement within Select Case, however, it is a good programming practice to always have a Case Else statement.

Syntax

Following is the syntax of a Switch statement in VBScript.
