Technology Transfer And East Asian Economic Transformation:

Technology Transfer and East Asian Economic Transformation Rudi Volti, 2002 Rudi Volti explores how the transfer of foreign technologies contributed to the rapid development of the East Asian economies of China Japan Taiwan and Korea

Economic Transformation in Eastern Europe and East Asia Herbert Hax, Wolfgang Klenner, Willi Kraus, Tomoo Matsuda, Takafusa Nakamura, 2012-12-06 The economic transformation taking place in Eastern Europe and Asia is in particular a challenge for Japan and Germany because these two states as the immediate neighbors of the developing regions are directly affected and also because they are the strongest economic powers in their regions and have the necessary potential to influence developments there Japan and Germany are affected in many ways both positively and negatively Should the economic and social transformation run into difficulties leading to economic and political chaos perhaps even to armed conflicts then economy and social fabric of the prosperous neighbors would doubtlessly suffer In the past Japan and the South East Asian region have already experienced how economic problems in China caused millions of Chinese to seek their fortunes in other countries An economic and political destabilization of China would today probably have even greater effects on migration flows Similar effects can be expected in Europe if the transformation process in Eastern Europe should fail But even less dramatic developments in Eastern Europe and East Asia can have deleterious consequences for Germany and Japan Both nations are linked closely to the transforming economies near them though at a fairly low level A reduction in trade with them a refusal to service debts and other economic frictions ensuing out of economic and political troubles would of necessity hamper the prosperity of Japan and Germany A successful transformation process would without doubt benefit all economic partners to a considerable extent

Technology Transfer and Economic Growth in Sub-Saharan African Countries Nathaniel O. Agola, 2016-03-21 This book provides a pragmatic analytical model grounded on the solid idea that technologies and the accompanying implementation efforts only make sense if they are successfully deployed in markets The analytical model also provides an exhaustive analysis of all critical variables at the global regional and national levels which contribute to failure or success of technology transfer efforts The model is validated by an incisive analysis of technology transfer experiences of Japan Korea Singapore Taiwan province of China and Malaysia While this book finds that these East Asian countries have had both diverging and converging models and experiences with technology transfer the enduring and fundamental aspects of technology transfer in specific industrial sectors and economic growth in these countries is then used to draw lessons for African countries This book therefore is a timely and compelling piece of research work that provides valuable answers to the increasingly urgent question of how African countries can industrialize through technology transfer to meet their economic development and growth ideals

The Role of Foreign Direct Investment in East Asian Economic Development Takatoshi Ito, Anne O. Krueger, 2007-12-01 The international flow of long term private capital has increased dramatically in the 1990s In fact many policymakers now consider private foreign capital to be an essential resource for the acceleration of economic growth This volume focuses attention on the microeconomic determinants and effects of foreign direct investment FDI in the East Asian region allowing researchers to explore the overall structure of FDI to offer case studies of individual countries and to consider their insights both general and particular within the context of current economic theory

Global Production Networking and Technological Change in East Asia Shahid Yusuf, M. Anjum Altaf, Kaoru Nabeshima, 2004-07-01 In the coming decades East Asian economies must face the challenges of an increasingly globalized marketplace This book explores the changing parameters of competition in East Asia and argues that success ultimately will depend on the ability of the region's firms to harness the potential of global production networks and to build their own innovative capability Presenting the latest findings on global production networks and the evolution of technological capabilities it provides researchers students and policymakers with in depth information and analysis on key issues related to growth and development in East Asia East Asian firms must not only achieve greater efficiency but also become more innovative offering differentiated products in order to vie with other first tier suppliers of multinational corporations These firms will also need to develop a technological edge if they are to compete with corporations from the leading OECD countries and form their own global production networks Global Production Networking and Technological Change in East Asia argues that a development strategy linked to technological advance will be necessary to foster the growth of innovative national firms that can remain competitive in global markets

Mr. Science and Chairman Mao's Cultural Revolution Chunjuan Nancy Wei, Darryl E. Brock, 2013-01-01 Despite the verdict of the Cultural Revolution as a disaster for China a number of scholars have called for reexamining socialist science under Mao's aegis This collection examines the viewpoints on social and scientific enterprises of that era probing medicine the space program and the one child policy as outcomes of earlier Maoist science

Handbook on East Asian Economic Integration Kimura, Fukunari, Pangestu, Mari, Thangavelu, Shandre M., Findlay, Christopher, 2021-12-09 This comprehensive Handbook provides an in depth analysis of the nature of East Asian economic integration alongside thoughtful insights into contemporary issues such as agricultural development structural transformation and East Asian trade alongside skills and human capital development policies of ASEAN Contributors also provide detailed explanations on trade poverty and Aid for Trade institutional reforms regulatory reform and measuring integration

China's Third Economic Transformation Ross Garnaut, Ligang Song, 2004-08-02 The Chinese economy is currently undergoing an institutional transformation as profound as the replacement of the people's communes with the household responsibility system in the early 1980s and the emergence of township and village enterprises as the main locus of economic dynamism in the second half of the 1980s This third dramatic transformation is the emergence of the private sector as the main source of the country's economic growth This book discusses the key issues in private sector development in China and includes An overview of the development of private enterprises in China Analysis of the development and emerging paths toward private enterprise Examination of the business environment in which private enterprises operate How the legal environment has changed through economic reform Managerial capabilities and state business interactions Suggestions of policy recommendations Perhaps controversially the contributors suggest that private sector development is necessary to maintain the dynamism of the Chinese economy and create greater employment opportunities China's Third Economic Transformation will appeal to scholars of Asian Economics and business who are interested in the rapid growth of the private sector in China

Technology in Postwar America

Carroll Pursell, 2007-06-29 Carroll Pursell tells the story of the evolution of American technology since World War II His fascinating and surprising history links pop culture icons with landmarks in technological innovation and shows how postwar politics left their mark on everything from television automobiles and genetically engineered crops to contraceptives Tupperware and the Veg O Matic Just as America's domestic and international policies became inextricably linked during the Cold War so did the nation's public and private technologies The spread of the suburbs fed into demands for an interstate highway system which itself became implicated in urban renewal projects Fear of slipping into a postwar economic depression was offset by the creation of a consumers republic in which buying and using consumer goods became the ultimate act of citizenship and a symbol of an American Way of Life Pursell begins with the events of World War II and the increasing belief that technological progress and the science that supported it held the key to a stronger richer and happier America He looks at the effect of returning American servicemen and servicewomen and the Marshall Plan which sought to integrate Western Europe into America's economic business and technological structure He considers the accumulating problems associated with American technological supremacy which by the end of the 1960s led to a crisis of confidence Pursell concludes with an analysis of how consumer technologies create a cultural understanding that makes political technologies acceptable and even seem inevitable while those same political technologies provide both form and content for the technologies found at home and at work By understanding this history Pursell hopes to advance a better understanding of the postwar American self

Chinese Firms and Technology in the Reform Era Yizheng Shi, 2012-11-12 In Chinese Firms and Technology in the Reform Era Yizheng Shi analyses the technological behaviour of state owned firms In particular he shows how they have imported utilised and assimilated foreign technology into their operations The author argues that despite being granted more autonomy and having to face increased competition Chinese firms are still not motivated to assimilate properly imported technology because of the absence of well delineated property rights
