principal narrative sources for the history of the Spanish kingdom of León Castile during the 11th and 12th centuries. The four chronicles were all composed in an unprecedented surge of Spanish historical writing between c. 1110 and c. 1150. Three of them focus primarily upon the activities of the kings of León Castile as leaders of the Reconquest of Spain from the forces of Islam and especially upon Fernando I 1037–65, his son Alfonso VI 1065–1109 and the latter's grandson Alfonso VII 1126–57. The fourth chronicle is a biography of the hero Rodrigo Díaz better remembered as El Cid and is the main source of information about his extraordinary career as a mercenary soldier who fought for Christians and Muslims alike.

The Cambridge Ancient History Alan K. Bowman, Peter Garnsey, Dominic Rathbone, 2000. Volume 11 of the second edition of The Cambridge Ancient History covers the history of the Roman empire from AD 70 to 192, from Vespasian to the Antonines. The volume begins with the political and military history of the period. Developments in the structure of the empire are then examined, including the organization and personnel of the central government and province-based institutions and practices. A series of provincial studies follows, and the society, economy and culture of the empire as a whole are reviewed in a group of thematic chapters.

Byzantium, Britain and the West Anthea Harris, 2003. In a surprising departure from orthodoxy and a radical new interpretation of the evidence, Anthea Harris argues that the Roman Empire in its surviving Byzantine form continued to shape life in the West, including Britain, at least until the 7th century AD.
