

Writer's Workshop

- What is it?
- It is a workshop model to teach writing instruction and practice in the classroom. It incorporates the steps of the writing process with specific directions to help students get familiar with different genres and understand its purpose in everyday life. "Students write for a real purpose, for a real reason, in all different genres, learning grammar and mechanics in the context of actual writing and learning (Smithson, M., n.d.)."
- How is it used?
- Writers Workshop model predictable pattern of :
- Mini-Lessons-teacher model and explains an issue or strategy or steps of writer's process
- Independent Writing-students work in a structured climate but room to choose topics of their interest to brainstorm ideas, draft, revise, edit their writing
- Conferencing (during independent writing)-meeting between teacher and student where teacher provides a group or individualized instruction on students' writings.
- Sharing/Publishing-Also known as 'Author's Chair' which provides students with positive feedback and audience for their writing
- Total writing workshop time: 30-50 minutes.
