Strategic Plan for Conducting Large Geographic Scale, Ship-Based Surveys to Support the U.S. Marine Mammal Protection and Endangered Species Acts Ballance, Lisa T.,2017 The motivation for this strategic plan is to provide a national unified approach for meeting science needs in partial support of the U S Marine Mammal Protection Act MMPA and the Endangered Species Act ESA The specific objective is to provide a framework for discussion of ship time with respect to chiefly cetacean science needs The plan presented here is meant to aid in strategic planning for these science requirements in the context of other National Marine Fisheries Service NMFS priorities and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's NOAA's Healthy Ocean Goal. In particular, it is hoped that a proactive and comprehensive strategic plan based on a predictable schedule and geographic area rotation will facilitate the continuation and in some cases the initial implementation of research that will provide the majority of data required to meet NMFS cetacean-related mandates. The European Union in Africa Maurizio Carbone, 2015-11-01. The European Union in Africa: Incoherent policies, asymmetrical partnership, declining relevance. Provides a comprehensive analysis of EU-Africa relations since the beginning of the twenty-first century and includes contributions from leading experts in the field of EU external relations. It seeks to explain how the relationship evolved through discussion of a number of different policies and agreements ranging from established areas such as aid, agriculture, trade, and security to new areas such as migration, climate change, energy, and social policies. This book successfully challenges a number of widely held assumptions on the role of the EU in Africa and at the same time sheds light on the role and identity of the EU in the international arena. It will be of great interest to students and scholars in the field of EU external relations as well as practitioners of international development.

The New Counterinsurgency Era David H. Ucko, 2009-07-02. Confronting insurgent violence in Iraq and Afghanistan: the U.S. military has recognized the need to relearn counterinsurgency. But how has the Department of Defense with its mixed efforts responded to this new strategic environment? Has it learned anything from past failures? In The New Counterinsurgency Era, David Ucko examines DoD's institutional obstacles and initially slow response to a changing strategic reality. Ucko also suggests how the military can better prepare for the unique challenges of modern warfare where it is charged with everything from providing security to supporting reconstruction to establishing basic governance all while stabilizing conquered territory and engaging with local populations. After briefly surveying the history of American counterinsurgency operations, Ucko focuses on measures the military has taken since 2001 to relearn old lessons about counterinsurgency to improve its ability to conduct stability operations, to change the institutional bias against counterinsurgency, and to account for successes gained from the learning process. Given the effectiveness of insurgent tactics, the frequency of operations aimed at building local capacity, and the danger of ungoverned spaces acting as havens for hostile groups, the military must acquire new skills to confront irregular threats in future wars. Ucko clearly shows that the opportunity to come to grips with counterinsurgency is matched in magnitude only by the cost of failing to do so.
