Elizabeth Riddell-Dixon

Strategies For The Year 2000 A Womans Handbook:

Feminist History in Canada Catherine Carstairs, Nancy Janovicek, 2013-11-25 In the late 1970s feminist historians urged us to rethink Canada by placing women's experiences at the centre of historical analysis Forty years later feminism continues to inform history writing and has inspired historians to look beyond the nation and adopt a more global perspective This exciting new volume of original essays opens with a discussion of the themes and methodological approaches that have preoccupied historians over the past twenty years The chapters that follow showcase the work of new and established scholars who draw on critical race theory postcolonial theory and transnational history to re-examine familiar topics such as biography and oral history paid and unpaid work marriage and family and women's political action Whether they focus on the marriage of Governor James Douglas and his Metis wife Amelia or on the experiences of Qu'becois domestic workers in the 1970s the contributors demonstrate the continued relevance of history informed by feminist perspectives and open a much needed dialogue between francophone and anglophone historians in Canada and the Beijing Conference on Women Elizabeth Riddell-Dixon, 2001 An examination of how Canada formulated its policies for the Fourth World Conference on Women The author relates her findings to two concerns in Canadian foreign policy making developments in the international arena and domestic pressures and government efforts to democratize foreign policy

The Impact of the United Nations Human Rights Treaties on the Domestic Level Christof Heyns, Frans Viljoen, 2021-08-04 The six main United Nations human rights treaties enjoy almost universal ratification today Almost 80 per cent of the possible ratifications have been made and every Member State of the UN has ratified at least one of these treaties The nearly universal acceptance of the treaties on the formal level however does not automatically translate into the norms contained in these documents being made a reality in the lives of the billions of people living in these countries The treaty system is notoriously weak in terms of international enforcement and there is a general suspicion that it has had little impact at the domestic level Mechanisms to improve the international enforcement mechanisms of the six main treaties have been a topic of discussion and research for many years but the domestic impact of the treaties has never been investigated in a systematic and comprehensive manner This book constitutes the most ambitious attempt so far to establish the impact of the treaties at the domestic level The following treaties in 20 United Nations Member States are investigated the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination the Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights the Covenant on Civil and Political Rights the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women the Convention Against Torture and the Convention on the Rights of the Child This book reflects the findings of 20 researchers based in the countries investigated under the leadership of Professors Christof Heyns and Frans Viljoen of the Centre for Human Rights

University of Pretoria in a study done in co operation with the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights The influence of the treaties in each of the 20 countries is investigated in respect of its influence on the continuation legislation court cases policies and practices and the impact of the treaty system in civil society In an overview chapter by the study leaders based on a comparison of the available data common trends and patterns are identified and recommendations about reforms on the national and international level are made This is a book that should be read by all those interested in the development of the international human rights system

Gender Politics in Global Governance Mary K. Meyer, Elisabeth Prüg, 1999 This volume draws together a wide range of exciting new research that looks at the gendered nature of the institutions practices and discourses of global governance
