Social Anthropology E. E. Evans-Pritchard, 1951      Academic Writing in Context Martin Hewings, 2006-06-21 This volume explores a number of themes of current interest to those engaged in researching and teaching academic genres the social and cultural context of academic writing differences between the academic and non academic text the analysis of particular text types variation within and across disciplines and applications of theory in the teaching of writing The contributors include many of today's most influential scholars in the area of academic literacy working in a wide variety of tertiary academic contexts in Britain Finland Hong Kong Zimbabwe Australia and the United States The implications will be of relevance to all those engaged in teaching academic writing to both native and non native English speaking students in tertiary education around the world      An Introduction to Social Anthropology Clark Wissler, 1929      Decolonising

Curricula and Pedagogy in Higher Education Shannon Morreira, Kathy Luckett, Siseko H. Kumalo, Manjeet Ramgotra, 2021-05-31 This book brings together voices from the Global South and Global North to think through what it means in practice to decolonise contemporary higher education Occasionally a theoretical concept arises in academic debate that cuts across individual disciplines Such concepts which may well have already been in use and debated for some time become suddenly newly and increasingly important at a particular historical juncture Right now debates around decolonisation are on the rise globally as we become increasingly aware that many of the old power imbalances brought into play by colonialism have not gone away in the present The authors in this volume bring theories of decoloniality into conversation with the structural cultural institutional relational and personal logics of curriculum pedagogy and teaching practice What is enabled in practice when academics set out to decolonize their teaching spaces What commonalities and differences are there where academics set out to do so in universities across disparate political and geographical spaces This book explores what is at stake when decolonial work is taken from the level of theory into actual practice The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Thematics      The Anthropology of Power Angela

Cheater, 2003-12-16 This book uses ethnographic analysis to examine the issues surrounding power and empowerment It presents material drawn from across the world to explore how traditionally disempowered groups gain influence in multicultural settings      Verbal Art Across Cultures Hubert Knoblauch, Helga Kotthoff, 2001      In Search of the Sacred

Clinton Bennett, 1996-01-01 This text traces the growth and development of two related disciplines anthropology and the study of religions Locating these disciplines within the intellectual climate of the 19th century the study considers the contributions of scholars such as James George Frazer F Max Muller Emile Durkheim Mary Douglas and Clifford Geertz within an historical framework The author argues that both anthropologists and students of religion have abandoned an objective approach in favour of personal engagement with their subjects replacing observation with conversation monologue with dialogue a text based with people based approach He reveals how each discipline has influenced the other both in terms of methodology and by the provision of data The book also explores the criticism levelled at both disciplines that they have aided colonial domination of the developing world Social Anthropology Angela P. Cheater,2004

Communicating Ruth Finnegan,2005-06-29 In Communicating the anthropologist Ruth Finnegan considers the many and varied modes through which we humans communicate and the multisensory resources we draw on The book uncovers the amazing array of sounds sights smells gestures looks movements touches and material objects which humans use so creatively to interconnect both nearby and across space and time resources consistently underestimated in those western ideologies that prioritise rationality and referential language Shifting Contexts Marilyn Strathern,2012-09-10 To suppose anthropological analysis can shift between global and local perspectives may well imply that the two co exist as broader and narrower horizons or contexts of knowledge The proof for this can be found in ethnographic accounts where contrasts are repeatedly drawn between the encompassing realm and everyday life or in value systems which sumultaneously trivialise and aggrandise or in shifts between what pertains to the general or to the particular Language Learners as Ethnographers Celia Roberts,2001 This book looks at the role of cultural studies and intercultural communication in language learning The book argues that learners who have an opportunity to stay in the target language country can be trained to do an ethnographic project while abroad Borrowing from anthropologists the idea of cultural fieldwork and writing culture language learners develop their linguistic and cultural competence through the study of a local group This book combines a theoretical overview of language and cultural practices with a description of ethnographic approaches and materials specifically designed for language learners
