

2) Import Substitution Industrialization (ISI)

Undesirable outcomes:

- Behind tariff protection, ISI industries don't become competitive
 - Protected industries get inefficient and costly
- Foreign firms often benefit more because they are sheltered from competition, hiding after tariff walls.
- In the early stages, ISI strategy needs to import capital goods and intermediate products and government often subsidizes purchases
- Exchange rates are overvalued in order to encourage local manufacturing through the importation of cheap capital and intermediate goods
 - Overvalued exchange rates hurt exports.
- Beneficiaries often are foreign firms who remit a large portion of profits back to home country

Tariff Protection Industrialization:

Tariff Protection and Industrialization Padma Desai, 1970

Trade Policy and Industrialization in Turbulent Times

Gerry Helleiner, 2002-09-11 The relationship between trade policy and industrialization has provoked much controversy Can trade policy promote economic growth in developing countries Those actively working in the area are becoming increasingly sceptical about the conventional advice given by international policy advisors and organizations This volume builds upon earlier theoretical and empirical research on trade policy and industrialization but is the first cross the board attempt to review developing country experiences in this realm for twenty years The experience of fourteen developing countries in the 1970s and 1980s is assessed by the contributors each of whom have a detailed understanding of their country s recent experience

Protection, Industrialization, Export Performance and Economic Development Jagdish N.

Bhagwati, 1976

The Political Economy of American Industrialization, 1877-1900 Richard Franklin

Bensel, 2000-11-06 In the late nineteenth century the United States underwent an extremely rapid industrial expansion that moved the nation into the front ranks of the world economy At the same time the nation maintained democratic institutions as the primary means of allocating political offices and power The combination of robust democratic institutions and rapid industrialization is rare and this book explains how development and democracy coexisted in the United States during industrialization Most literature focuses on either electoral politics or purely economic analyses of industrialization This book synthesizes politics and economics by stressing the Republican party s role as a developmental agent in national politics the primacy of the three great developmental policies the gold standard the protective tariff and the national market in state and local politics and the impact of uneven regional development on the construction of national political coalitions in Congress and presidential elections

Trade Policy and Industrialization in Turbulent Times Gerald K. Helleiner, 1994 With the relationship between trade policy and industrialization coming in for increasingly close scrutiny this book assesses how far trade policy has promoted economic growth in fourteen developing countries in the 1970s and 1980s

Thailand's Industrialization and its Consequences Medhi Krongkaew, 1995-06-12 Professor Krongkaew is one of Thailand's best known academic economists and he has brought together an impressive number of authorities on the modern Thai economy The resulting book should be of great value to anyone wanting an authoritative and comprehensive overview of recent developments in one of Asia's most dynamic economies Anne Booth School of Oriental and African Studies University of London The book is divided into 4 parts Part 1 gives an overview of Thai industrialization and the roles of agriculture manufactured exports direct foreign investment and tourism as major contributors to recent fast economic growth Part 2 analyses the impact of industrialization on government finance monetary policy urbanisation and household welfare Part 3 further investigates impact on political development social values the environment and education health and science and technology Part 4 looks at a future role of Thailand as a newly industrialized country in Asia
