Tanzania The Limits To Development From Above:

Tanzania Kjell J. Havnevik,1993 Liberalised Development in Tanzania Peter Gibbon,1995 Presents two studies which examine economic and political developments in Tanzania in relation to the mining industry the expansion of the informal sector and the rise of community development and of local non governmental organizations Covers the period from 1960 to 1992 Includes a history of the mining industry from 1918 to 1992 and profiles of mining areas and mining villages Describes the role of the state and of non governmental organizations in the provision of education and health care in nine districts Tanzania Kjell J. Havnevik,1993 State and Business in Tanzania's Development François

Bourguignon,Samuel Mwita Wangwe,2023-11-23 Accounts for Tanzania s economic social and political development diagnosing its institutional weaknesses and needed reforms State and Business in Tanzania's Development Samuel Mwita Wangwe,2023-11-23 It is widely accepted that countries institutions play a major role in their economic development Yet the way they affect and are affected by development and how to reform them are still poorly understood In this companion volume State and Business in Tanzania diagnoses the main weaknesses root causes and developmental consequences of Tanzania s institutions and shows that the uncertainty surrounding its development paths and its difficulty in truly taking off are related to institutional challenges Based on a thorough account of the economic social and political development of the country this diagnostic offers evidence on the quality of its institutions and a detailed analysis of critical institution and development sensitive areas among which state business relations rank high even though the institutional features of land management civil service and the power sector are shown to be also of prime importance This title is also available as Open Access A Road to Development Adebayo O. Olukoshi,Lennart Wohlgemuth,1995 States that the emerging vision in Africa is toward the development of an adaptive and diversified economy with an increased role for the private sector and a reduced role for the state in directly productive economic activities This vision must incorporate a growing diversified and flexible economy incorporation of poverty alleviation in any strategy to improve conditions a competitive private sector and a low profile for the state in production Stresses that appropriate structural adjustme

Visions for an African Valley DR JONATHAN M. JACKSON,2025-03-11 What was the effect of the numerous albeit often unsatisfied plans for development on the land and communities of the Kilombero valley throughout the colonial period and into the first decades of independence This book traces histories of development in and crucially visions of development for the Kilombero valley of south central Tanzania Taking the notion of development planning as a form of future making the book examines the many visions or past futures projected onto Kilombero by colonial and national governments by international organisations syndicates and individuals It examines how such plans were conceived evaluates their successes and analyses their shortcomings against changing political and economic landscapes Four key themes agricultural intensification ecology control infrastructure and re settlement are shown to persistently surface and continue to shape the valleyscape today By considering past future visions for the reorganisation of rural life in Tanzania the book reveals how even recent initiatives have suffered through their failure to learn from this history Offering fresh insights and approaches to the historiography of development Visions for an African Valley shows Kilombero to be a prism which refracts broader phenomena across more than a century Tanzania in Transition Kjell Havnevik, C. Isinika, 2010-08-01 This book is the first comprehensive contribution to understanding the character of important societal transitions in Tanzania during Benjamin Mkapa's presidency 1995 2005 The analyses of the trajectory of these transitions are conducted against the background of the development model of Tanzania's first president Julius Nyerere 1961 1985 a model with lasting influence on the country This approach enables an understanding of continuities and discontinuities in Tanzania over time in areas such as development strategy an ideology agrarian land gender and forestry issues economic liberalization development assistance corruption and political change The period of Mkapa's presidency is particularly important because it represents the first phase of Tanzania's multi party political system Mkapa's government initially faced a gloomy economic situation Although Mkapa's crusade against corruption lost direction his presidency was characterised by relatively high growth rates and a stable macro economy Rural and agrarian transitions were dominated by diversification rather than productivity growth and transformation Rural attitudes in favour of land markets emerged only slowly but formal land disputes showed more respect for women's rights Some space emerged for widening local participation in forest management but rural dynamics was mainly found in trading settlements feeding on economic liberalization and artisanal mining The transitions documented and analysed of Mkapa's presidency however indicate only limited transformational change Rural poverty is therefore likely to remain deep and the sustainability of economic development to be at risk in the future Mkapa was however able to protect the legacy of peace and political stability of Nyerere but there were nevertheless important challenges to the first multiparty elections and governance and particularly in Zanzibar The post script covering 2005 2010 indicates that the incumbent president Jakaya Kikwete has yet to prove that he can change this legacy of Mkapa Co published with the Nordic Africa Institute and the Sokoine University of Agriculture the contributions to the eleven chapters of this book are evenly shared between Tanzanian Nordic and other European researchers with a long term commitment to Tanzanian development research he book is dedicated to the youth of Tanzania Biofuels, Land Grabbing and Food Security in Africa Prosper B. Matondi, Kjell Havnevik, Atakilte Beyene, 2011-06-09 The issue of biofuels has already been much debated but the focus to date has largely been on Latin America and deforestation this highly original work breaks fresh ground in looking at the African perspective Most African governments see biofuels as having the potential to increase agricultural productivity and export incomes and thus strengthen their national economies improving energy balances and rural employment At the same time climate change may be addressed through reduction of green house gas emissions There are however a number of uncertainties mounting that challenge this scenario Using cutting edge empirical case studies this knowledge gap is addressed in a variety of chapters examining the effects of large scale biofuel production on African agriculture In particular land grabbing and food security issues are scrutinised both of which have become vital topics in regard to the environmental and developmental governance of African countries A revealing book for anyone wishing to understand the startling impact of biofuels and land grabbing on Africa A History of Water: Series III, Volume 3 Terje Tvedt, Terje Oestigaard, 2016-08-31 Major changes in policy and management across the entire agricultural production chain will be needed to ensure the best use of available water resources in meeting growing demands for food and other agricultural products This new volume in the successful History of Water Series focuses on the African continent to address this key issue Humanity has its roots in Africa and many of our food systems developed there All types of agricultural production are present and the sheer size of the continent offers wide ecological variation from extreme desert to dense rainforest Drawing together leading international contributors from a wide variety of disciplines Water and Food offers new insights into the evolution of food systems from early hunter gatherers to the global challenges of the modern world
