Tanzania's Eighth Constitutional Amendment And Its Implications On Constitutionalism Democracy And The Union Question:

Tanzania's Eighth Constitutional Amendment and Its Implications on Constitutionalism, Democracy and the Union Question Harrison George Mwakyembe, 1995 Human Rights Law in Africa, Volume 3 (1998) Christof Heyns, 2021-11-01

Human Rights, the Rule of Law, and Development in Africa Paul Tiyambe Zeleza, Philip J.

McConaughay, 2011-06-07 Changes in human rights environments in Africa over the past decade have been facilitated by astounding political transformations the rise of mass movements and revolts driven by democratic and developmentalist ideals as well as mass murder and poverty perpetuated by desperate regimes and discredited global agencies Human Rights the Rule of Law and Development in Africa seeks to make sense of human rights in Africa through the lens of its triumphs and tragedies its uneven developments and complex demands The volume makes a significant contribution to the debate about the connections between the protection of human rights and the pursuit of economic development by interrogating the paradigms politics and practices of human rights in Africa Throughout the essays emphasize that democratic and human rights regimes are products of concrete social struggles not simply textual or legal discourses Including some of Africa's leading scholars jurists and human rights activists contributors to the volume diverge from Western theories of African democratization by rejecting the continental view of an Africa blighted by failure disease and economic malaise It argues instead that Africa has strengthened and shaped international law such as the right to self determination inspired by the process of decolonization and the definition of the refugee Insisting on the holistic view that human rights are as much about economic and social rights as they are about civil and political rights the contributors offer novel analyses of African conceptions experiences and aspirations of human rights which manifest themselves in complex global regional and local idioms Further they explore the varied constructions of human rights in African and Western discourses and the roles played by states and NGOs in promoting or subverting human rights Combining academic analysis with social concern intellectual discourse with civic engagement and scholarly research with institution building this is a compelling and original approach to the question whether externally inspired solutions to African human rights issues have validity in a postcolonial world

Human Rights Law in Africa 1997 Christof Heyns, 2023-12-14 As from 2012 no new volumes will be published in this series The Human Rights Law in Africa Series is an evolving reference work on human rights law in Africa The Series covers in particular the primary documents related to human rights law in Africa of the United Nations the Organization of African Unity and the domestic legal systems of all 53 African countries Some selected factual discussions are also included as well as bibliographies The Series has been published on an annual basis since 1996 Later volumes supplement and do not replace earlier ones Each volume covers new documents available to the editors up to the 1st of January of that year Documents published in earlier volumes and that are still valid are not reprinted in subsequent volumes instead readers are provided with the appropriate references to earlier volumes

The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights Volume 2

Nat Rubner, 2023 Landmark study of the African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights Documents on one side the international community's inability to foist a human rights system upon Africa and on the other the process within the OAU now African Union that eventually brought it into being and determined its content The African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights ACHPR which was proposed in 1979 adopted in 1981 and came into effect in 1986 was the first non Western declaration of human rights and the first official statement of an African human rights perspective With Africa largely absent in 1948 when the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR was adopted it stands in stark historical reproach to the Western conception of universal human rights as a pivotal document in the decolonisation of the continent This book for the first time presents a comprehensive account of the development of the ACHPR which is key to a proper understanding of its fundamental nature Through documenting its process of construction it becomes possible to understand how Africans themselves understood the process and the issues involved and how the ACHPR became a political text asserted by African leaders and not a continuum of a so called universal human rights tradition The result is a radical repositioning of the underlying context of the ACHPR one of the most important documents in modern African history of how it came to be and how it should therefore be understood Volume 2 describes the process through which the ACHPR came into being Analysing the role of Western governments the UN and NGOs it shows that contrary to the prevailing view of African human rights commentators their influence was limited and at times counter productive That in fact the formulation of the ACHPR was a profoundly political process that was primarily a product of an African desire to instigate its own human rights perspective as a counter to the human rights universalism advanced by the Western post war human rights tradition

Human Rights Law in Africa 1998 Christof Heyns, 2001-04-11 Statute of the ICTR

African Parliaments M. Salih, 2005-12-10 This book offers in depth analysis of parliamentary development set in a historical context informed by Africa's post 1990s democratic resurgence In particular it illustrates how African parliaments are caught between the twin processes of being part of the machinery of government while exercising the function of holding government accountable

The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights [2 Volume Set] Nat Rubner, 2023 A landmark study of the African Charter on human and peoples rights one of the most important documents in modern African history that positions it within the African Lives Matter struggle to assert an African identity rather than as simply a human rights document This set describes its underlying African origins and how the principles of the OAU influenced its path and content

Elections in Africa Dieter Nohlen, Michael Krennerich, Bernard Thibaut, 1999-07-22 Elections have always been an integral part of post independence African politics and have assumed utmost importance in the course of recent democratisation processes However comparative research on the political development in Africa lacks reliable electoral data Elections in Africa fills this gap The handbook is the only reliable source for African elections from independence to present In the first volume of this series Elections in Africa

presents a country by country study of African nations that provides a comparative introduction on elections and electoral systems Each country chapter examines the history of the institutional and electoral arrangements the evolution of suffrage and current electoral provisions Precise and exhaustive data on national elections and referendums are presented comparatively The book provides a definitive and comprehensive set of data on elections and electoral systems in order to facilitate comparative research Data is presented in a systematic manner allowing for both historical and cross national comparisons
