Finding Home and Homeland Avinoam J. Patt, 2009 Patt argues that Zionism was highly successful in filling a positive function for young displaced persons in the aftermath of the Holocaust because it provided a secure environment for vocational training education rehabilitation and a sense of family One of the foremost expressions of Zionist affiliation on the part of surviving Jewish youths after the war was the choice to live in kibbutzim organized within displaced persons camps in Germany and Poland or even on estates of former Nazi leaders By the summer of 1947 there were close to 300 kibbutzim in the American zone of occupied Germany with over 15 000 members as well as 40 agricultural training settlements hakhsharot with over 3 000 members Ultimately these young people would be called upon to assist the state of Israel in the fighting that broke out in 1948 Patt argues that for many of the youth who joined the kibbutzim of the Zionist youth movements and journeyed to Israel it was the search for a new home that ultimately brought them to a new homeland From publisher description National Union Catalog ,1973 Includes entries for maps and atlases Jewish Reform Movement in the US Mara W.
