The James-Hawthorne Relation Thaddeo K. Babiiha, 1980      Biography Ira B. Nadel, 1986-06-18      Henry James, Gertrude Stein, and the Biographical Act Charles Caramello, 2000-11-09 Focusing on biographical portraiture Charles Caramello argues that Henry James and Gertrude Stein performed biographical acts in two senses of the phrase they wrote biography but as a cover for autobiography Constructing literary genealogies while creating original literary forms they used their biographical portraits of precursors and contemporaries to portray themselves as exemplary modern artists Caramello advances this argument through close readings of four works that explore themes of artistry and influence and that experiment with forms of biographical portraiture James's early biography of Nathaniel Hawthorne and his much later group biography William Wetmore Story and His Friends and Stein's celebrated Autobiography of Alice B Toklas and her largely forgotten Four in America which comprises biographies of Ulysses S Grant Wilbur Wright Henry James and George Washington The first comparative study of these two great expatriate writers Henry James Gertrude Stein and the Biographical Act addresses questions of art influence and literary culture by analyzing important biographical portraits that themselves address the same questions Originally published 1996 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value      The Pragmatic Mind Mark Bauerlein, 1997 English professor Mark Bauerlein studies the pragmatism of Emerson James and Peirce and its overlooked relevance for the neopragmatism of later thinkers Bauerlein argues that those original pragmatists are often cited casually and imprecisely as mere precursors to contemporary intellectuals but in fact many broad social and academic reforms hailed by new pragmatists were actually grounded in the old school      The Art of Criticism Henry James, 1986-06-15 A collection of the most important of Henry James Prefaces his studies of Hawthorne George Eliot Balzac Zola de Maupassant Turgenev Sainte Beuve and Arnold and his essays on the function of criticism and the future of the novel P 4 of cover      The James-Hawthorne Relation Thaddeo K. Babiiha, 1980      Writing for Immortality Anne E. Boyd, 2010-01-01 Before the Civil War American writers such as Catharine Maria Sedgwick and Harriet Beecher Stowe had established authorship as a respectable profession for women But though they had written some of the most popular and influential novels of the century they accepted the taboo against female writers regarding themselves as educators and businesswomen During and after the Civil War some women writers began to challenge this view seeing themselves as artists writing for themselves and for posterity Writing for Immortality studies the lives and works of four prominent members of the first generation of American women who strived for recognition as serious literary artists Louisa May Alcott Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Elizabeth Stoddard and Constance Fenimore Woolson Combining literary criticism and cultural history Anne E Boyd examines how these authors negotiated the masculine connotation of artist imagining a space for themselves in the literary pantheon Redrawing the boundaries between male and female literary spheres and between American and British literary traditions Boyd shows how these writers rejected the didacticism of the previous generation of women writers and instead drew their inspiration from the most prominent literary writers of their day Emerson James Barrett Browning and Eliot Placing the works and experiences of Alcott Phelps Stoddard and Woolson within contemporary discussions about genius and the American artist Boyd reaches a sobering conclusion Although these women were encouraged by the democratic ideals implicit in such concepts they were equally discouraged by lingering prejudices about their applicability to women

Narrative Skepticism Linda Schermer Raphael, 2001 Using narrative philosophical and psychoanalytic theory Linda S Raphael investigates the development of skepticism in narrative She argues that as authors explore more deeply the inner life of characters their narratives become more skeptical about pinning down what it means to lead a good life This argument is buttressed through a close examination of Jane Austen's Persuasion George Eliot's Middlemarch Henry James's The Wings of the Dove Virginia Woolf's Mrs Dalloway and Kazuo Ishiguro's The Remains of the Day

American Literary Realism, 1870-1910, 1981 The Divine Unity and Trinity. Essays on God and on His Relation to the Universe and to Man Herbert Hammond Jeaffreson, 1888

Echoes of Emerson Diana Hope Polley, 2017-10-17 Probes the ways in which two major periods in nineteenth century American literature Romanticism and Realism have come to be understood and defined

Manhood and the American Renaissance David Leverenz, 2019-06-30 In the view of David Leverenz such nineteenth century American male writers as Emerson Hawthorne Melville Thoreau and Whitman were influenced more profoundly by the popular model of the entrepreneurial man of force than they were by their literary precursors and contemporaries Drawing on the insights of feminist theory gender studies psychoanalytical criticism and social history Manhood and the American Renaissance demonstrates that gender pressures and class conflicts played as critical a role in literary creation for the male writers of nineteenth century America as they did for the women writers Leverenz interprets male American authors in terms of three major ideologies of manhood linked to the social classes in the Northeast patrician artisan and entrepreneurial He asserts that the older ideologies of patrician gentility and of artisan independence were being challenged from 1820 to 1860 by the new middle class ideology of competitive individualism The male writers of the American Renaissance patrician almost without exception in their backgrounds and self expectations were fascinated yet horrified by the aggressive materialism and the rivalry for dominance they witnessed in the undifferentiated new men In close readings of the works both of well known male literary figures and of then popular authors such as Richard Henry Dana Jr and Francis Parkman Leverenz discovers a repressed center of manhood beset by fears of humiliation and masochistic fantasies He discerns different patterns in the works of Whitman with his artisan's background and Frederick Douglass who rose from artisan freedom to entrepreneurial power Emphasizing the interplay of class and gender Leverenz also considers how women viewed manhood He concludes that male writers portrayed manhood as a rivalry for dominance but contemporary female writers saw it as patriarchy Two chapters contrast the work of the genteel writers Sarah Hale and Caroline Kirkland with the evangelical works of Susan Warner and Harriet Beecher Stowe A bold and imaginative work Manhood and the American Renaissance will enlighten and inspire controversy among all students of American literature nineteenth century American history and the relation of gender and literature The Cambridge Companion to Literature and Science Steven Meyer, 2018-05-03 This Companion shows how literature and science inform one another and that they are more closely aligned than they typically appear The Problem of American Realism Michael Davitt Bell, 1993 Ever since William Dean Howells declared his realism war in the 1880s literary historians have regarded the rise of realism and naturalism as the great development in American post Civil War fiction Yet there are many problems with this generalization It is virtually impossible for example to extract from the novels and manifestoes of American writers of this period any consistent definitions of realism or naturalism as modes of literary representation Rather than seek common traits in widely divergent realist and naturalist literary works Michael Davitt Bell focuses here on the role that these terms played in the social and literary discourse of the 1880s and 1890s Bell argues that in America realism and naturalism never achieved the sort of theoretical rigor that they did in European literary debate Instead the function of these ideas in America was less aesthetic than ideological promoting as reality a version of social normalcy based on radically anti literary and heavily gendered assumptions What effects Bell asks did ideas about realism and naturalism have on writers who embraced and resisted them To answer this question he devotes separate chapters to the work of Howells and Frank Norris the principal American advocates of realism and naturalism in the 1880s and 1890s Mark Twain Henry James Stephen Crane Theodore Dreiser and Sarah Orne Jewett Bell reveals that a chief function of claiming to be a realist or a naturalist was to provide assurance that one was a real man rather than an effeminate artist Since the 1880s Bell asserts all serious American fiction writers have had to contend with this problematic conception of literary realism The true story of the transformation of American fiction after the Civil War is the history of this contention a history of individual accommodations evasions holding actions and occasional triumphs S[ain]t Louis Public School Library bulletin ,1880 Monthly Bulletin ,1879 Bulletins of Additions 1879-83 Saint Louis (Mo.).
