The Little Wonder John Winton,1986 Making Histories in Transport Museums Colin Divall,Andrew Scott,2001-12-20

This book is the first in 30 years to take transport museums seriously as vehicles for the making of public histories Drawing upon many years experience of visiting and working in transport museums around the world the authors argue that the sector s historical roots are more complex than is usually thought Written from a multidisciplinary perspective but firmly rooted in the practice of making public histories this book brings the study of transport museums firmly into the mainstream of academic and professional debate British railway enthusiasm Ian Carter,2017-10-03 Now available in paperback

this is the first academic book to study railway enthusiasts in Britain Far from a trivial topic the post war train spotting craze swept most boys and some girls into a passion for railways and for many ignited a lifetime s interest British railway enthusiasm traces this post war cohort and those which followed as they invigorated different sectors in the world of railway enthusiasm train spotting railway modelling collecting railway relics and then in response to the demise of main line steam traction Britain s now huge preserved railway industry Today this industry finds itself riven by tensions between preserving a loved past which ever fewer people can remember and earning money from tourist visitors The widespread and enduring significance of railway enthusiasm will ensure that this groundbreaking text remains a key work in transport studies and will appeal to enthusiasts as much as to students and scholars of transport and cultural history The Little Wonder John
