The Lonely Sea and the Sky ,1964 British Sport: Biographical studies of British sportsmen, sportswomen, and animals Richard William Cox,2003 Volume three of a bibliography documenting all that has been written in the English language on the history of sport and physical education in Britain It lists all secondary source material including reference works in a classified order to meet the needs of the sports historian The Cancer Epidemic Gotthard Booth,1979 Supported by the New York Psychosomatic Cancer Study Group and the Gotthard Booth Society for Holistic Health The wide publicity given to statistical surveys of cigarette and other tobacco habits in terms of an aetiological factor in lung cancer has relegated to the background many other possible components particularly in the sphere of personality and emotional constellations This work presents Gotthard Booth s studies of persons who developed cancer with observations and an experimental approach the results of which are given in categories of Rorschach responses in order to gain information about the subjects personalities in terms of intellectual function emotional control present content mental conflicts creative imagination and fundamental instinctive drives From these studies and from the known aspects of the cancer situation the author suggests that cancer is an expression of the personality type and that the cancer patient is dominated by anal components Rich in new ideas with a wealth of informative material to be considered in practical applications not only in the field of psychopathology but also in general medicine British Books in Print ,1986 British Sport - a Bibliography to 2000 Richard Cox,2013-12-16 Volume three of a bibliography documenting all that has been written in the English language on the history of sport and physical education in Britain It lists all secondary source material including reference works in a classified order to meet the needs of the sports historian The Lonely Sea and the Sky Sir Francis Chichester,2012-01-09 The autobiography of Francis Chichester a tale of ardour and adventure of intrepid endeavours on land on the sea and in the air The life and sheer temerity of his undertakings mark Sir Francis Chichester as a true old fashioned adventurer The Book Buyer's Guide ,1964 Whitaker's Cumulative Book List ,1985 From Here to There Michael Bond,2020-05-12 A Wired Most Fascinating Book of the Year An important book that reminds us that navigation remains one of our most underappreciated arts Tristan Gooley author of The Lost Art of Reading Nature s Signs If you want to understand what rats can teach us about better planned cities why walking into a different room can help you find your car keys or how your brain s grid border and speed cells combine to give us a sense of direction this book has all the answers The Scotsman How is it that some of us can walk unfamiliar streets without losing our way while the rest of us struggle even with a GPS Navigating in uncharted territory is a remarkable feat if you stop to think about it In this beguiling mix of science and storytelling Michael Bond explores how we do it how our brains make the cognitive maps that keep us orientated and how that anchors our sense of wellbeing Children are instinctive explorers developing a spatial understanding as they roam And yet today few of us make use of the wayfinding skills that we inherited from our nomadic ancestors Bond tells stories of the lost and found sailors orienteering champions early aviators and explores why being lost can be such a devastating experience He considers how our understanding of the world around us affects our psychology and helps us see how our reliance on technology may be changing who we are Bond concludes that by setting aside our GPS devices by redesigning parts of our cities and play areas and sometimes just by letting ourselves get lost we can indeed revivify our ability to find our way to the benefit of our inner world no less than the outer one Science A thoughtful argument about how our ability to find our way is integral to our nature Sunday Times The Barefoot Navigator Jack Lagan, 2013-08-04 The Barefoot Navigator is an unusual and fascinating exploration of the skills of navigation employed by the ancients and transferrable to the present day The first half of the book investigates the navigation capabilities of seafarers long before modern navigation instruments or charts became available For example how did the Polynesians manage to populate an area of ocean larger than North America simply by analysing clouds currents wind direction sun stars and the flight patterns of ocean birds And how did the Vikings routinely travel between Iceland Greenland and Scandinavia huge tracts of treacherous water The second part of the book analyses how the techniques of the ancients can be employed by 21st century seafarers to supplement today's navigational hardware especially in survival situations This is a unique analysis of practical technology free navigation whose techniques can easily be employed by modern navigators to supplement their personal navigation skills in order to just know where they are It will fascinate navigators and landlubbers alike
