The Practice of Pastoral Care

Carrie Doehring, 2006-01-01 Drawing on psychological theological and cultural studies on suffering Carrie Doehring encourages counselors to view their ministry through trifocal lenses and include approaches that are premodern apprehending God through religious rituals modern consulting rational and empirical sources and postmodern acknowledging the contextual nature of knowledge Utilizing strategies from all three perspectives Doehring describes the basic ingredients of a caregiving relationship shows how to use the caregiver's life experience as a source of authority and demonstrates how to develop the skill of listening and establish the actual relationship She then explains the steps of psychological assessment systemic assessment and theological reflection and finally she delineates the basic steps for plans of care attending to the careseeker's safety building trust mourning losses and reconnecting with the ordinariness of life

What Does the Lord Require? James L. Killen, 2004 Contemporary life is filled with a host of contentious moral and social issues There are many thorny topics both personal and political which bring out a cacophony of opinions that can overwhelm us While we are inundated with questions there often seem to be no clear answers So how should we respond As Christians we must constantly ask ourselves What does the Lord require of me In this outstanding collection of meditations James Killen examines many of today's hot button issues with an eye toward helping readers think through their beliefs and responsibilities Mindful of our call to live in faithfulness to God's purpose each essay draws on the Bible and the Christian faith to discern how God would have us respond to the emerging situations of our world's history What Does The Lord Require is topical inspiring reading and with thoughtful discussion questions at the end of each meditation it's an excellent resource for adult classes or study groups as well as for a sermon series that is sure to connect with congregations Among the issues addressed are religious pluralism economic justice materialism environmental stewardship gender roles suicide abortion personal integrity homosexuality AIDS race relations war The timid pulpit is too often the platform of pastors who choose not to unsettle their parishioners As a result words that address the critical social and moral issues of our day go unspoken The messages of this book inspire the reader to new heights of courage as these difficult issues are presented with clear forthright challenges You will be informed and motivated as the cost of discipleship awakens your Christian journey in the 21st century Joe A Wilson United Methodist bishop James Killen does a remarkable job of reminding us that being a Christian is more than individual religiosity Rather it encompasses every facet of our existence personal and corporate These meditations explore issues that Christians cannot afford to ignore A must read Brig Gen Hiram Doc Jones USAF retired Former Deputy Chief Air Force Chaplain Service James L Killen has pastored a variety of congregations during a 45 year career in the ministry ranging from a small open country parish in northeast Texas to Trinity United Methodist Church in Beaumont Texas a 2 000 member church with a television ministry serving all of southeast Texas and southwestern Louisiana A graduate of the University of Houston and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University Killen's work has appeared in several publications including Preaching Pulpit Digest Circuit Rider The Upper Room and the Abingdon Preaching Annual He is also the author of Who Do You Say That I Am Saying Our Stories Ronald H. Sunderland, 2024-07-17 SOS is the culmination of my work since 1966 when my wife Noel and I moved from Melbourne Australia to Houston Texas My initial goal was to begin a four year clinical pastoral education program CPE at the Institute of Religion in the Texas Medical Center The long term dream was to develop a parish based lay pastoral education program to equip laypeople to serve with their ordained pastors in the pastoral ministry of the parish Until the midnineteenth century pastoral care was the province of parish clergy for which few were adequately equipped I aimed to change that model by demonstrating that laypeople with the necessary training were integral to the church's ministry That would entail providing clergy with supervisory skills The founder organizations of the newly constituted Association for Clinical Pastoral Education ACPE had pioneered clergy pastoral care education in the 1920s The Equipping Laypeople for Ministry ELM program which I founded in 1979 proved effective in the dual tasks of lay pastoral care training and the preparation of clergy for their necessary function of oversight of lay pastors. Saying Our Stories is the account of the pioneering effort to undertake those tasks and demonstrate the effectiveness of the new model of parish pastoral ministry. It is a book of stories. The text suggests that pastoral care at heart is knowing that when a troubled person casts round for someone to listen to her or his story they need a caring story listener. Such listening is hard work but story listeners know that to listen is to care. If they finish up thinking 'All I did was listen' they know it is such a big all.

Family Ministry Diana R. Garland, 2012-08-02. Now revised and updated throughout. Diana Garland's core text for ministers and others in the helping professions provides a comprehensive look at the Christian purpose of family and the complex world our families inhabit.

Spiritual Presence In Psychotherapy David A. Steere, 2018-10-24. The book is authoritative, well reasoned and abounds in wisdom. It accurately portrays the deepest meanings of both spiritual presence and psychotherapy and shows interactions. This is a pioneering volume, the first of its kind. It should be the standard text for years to come.

Wayne E. Oates, Ph.D., Professor of Psychiatry, Emeritus, University of Louisiana School of Medicine. In Spiritual Presence in Psychotherapy, David Steere recognizes the incorporation of this tradition, referring to it as spirituality, and presents a unique look at this heretofore neglected interface. This book is written in response to the need observed by Dr. Steere for caregivers who want to accommodate a spiritual dimension in their work. For this reason, psychotherapists, psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, pastoral counselors, nurses, all dealing with the responsibility of treating mental disorders and helping people change, will find Spiritual Presence in Psychotherapy invaluable. The first part of the text discusses the interfaces of psychotherapy and spirituality. Dr. Steere analyzes the deconstruction of mainstream religion and the rise of psychotherapy against a backdrop of what he calls spiritual homelessness. In the second part, seven models for spiritual presence in psychotherapy are described. These are supernatural, expansive, empathic, developmental, sacred, crisis, and systemic. Then, in the final portion of the book, the focus moves to an integration of responsiveness to spiritual presence in effective and enduring caregiving. In addition to the professionals who will find Spiritual Presence in Psychotherapy an important resource and reference, the book will also serve as a key textbook for graduate level students of professional issues and ethics, as well as psychotherapy and spirituality.

The Illusion of Trust E.R. DuBose, 2012-12-06. This book is about trust and its implications for a medical, theological, ethics. Beginning with its earliest work, there has been attention to trust running through the bioethics literature in the United States, and much of this discussion has examined its theological elements. Clearly, trust is indispensable when describing the patient-physician relationship, so why is there a need for yet another study? There is no doubt that people generally trust physicians. Traditionally, the physician is the patient's fiduciary agent whose sole obligation is to act only in the patient's best interest. In recent times, however, there is a perception on the part of people within and without health care that physicians have other obligations that compete with their obligation to the patient. If we acknowledge that one price for the successes of technological biomedicine is high in terms of financial cost another price of success seems to be distrust cynicism and suspicion directed by the public toward the medical profession If this uneasiness is the price society pays for medical success what is the price of success for the doctor Because of their role within the social order physicians have claimed and been granted autonomy authority and special status In return the profession has pledged to serve the well being and interests of humankind This fiduciary commitment becomes a taken for granted aspect of the physician's identity both for the physician for whom this dedication is definitional and for the public which expects trustworthy service from this person

Sustaining Presence Earl E. Shelp, Ronald Sunderland, 2000 In Sustaining Presence Earl E Shelp and Ronald H Sunderland present their insight that the care of congregational members is a communal activity within a church and that laity care teams are a proven effective way of delivering pastoral care They express the idea that pastoral ministry is a function of the church not only of the ordained The function of sustaining is the defining feature of pastoral care while the function of presence is the defining method The larger part of this book is comprised of chapters that apply care team models to specific audiences the elderly people who have Alzheimer s disease people with AIDS and children and their particular needs Sustaining Presence is a resource that makes the case for formation of care teams to perform the important ministry of relating in a meaningful way to those in need People who apply the strategies in this book will be giving of themselves to help others serving God in the spirit of Christ
