Text Databases and Document Management: Theory and Practice Chin, Amita Goyal, 2000-07-31 The ability of relational databases to store and manage large amounts of limited data types is well proven but the basics of representing textual information and its subsequent retrieval in a meaningful fashion still provides many challenges This is because documents do not easily map to traditional database solutions The primary objective of Text Databases and Document Management Theory and Practice is to provide a focal point for concrete theories and practices in the handling of textual data as well as documents as a whole Effective Databases for Text & Document Management Shirley A.

Pendharkar, 2003-01-01 Portals present unique strategic challenges in the academic environment

Their conceptualization and design requires the input of campus constituents who seldom interact and whose interests are often opposite. The implementation of a portal requires a coordination of applications and databases controlled by different campus units at a level that may never before have been attempted at the institution. Building a portal is as much about constructing intra campus bridges as it is about user interfaces and content. Designing Portals: Opportunities and Challenges discusses the current status of portals in higher education by providing insight into the role portals play in an institution's business and educational strategy by taking the reader through the processes of conceptualization, design, and implementation of the portals in different stages of development at major universities and by offering insight from three producers of portal software systems in use at institutions of higher learning and elsewhere. Text Mining and its Applications to Intelligence, CRM and Knowledge Management A. Zanasi, 2007-09-30 Organizations generate and collect large volumes of textual data. Unfortunately, many companies are unable to capitalize fully on the value of this data because information implicit within it is not easy to discern. Primarily intended for business analysts and statisticians across multiple industries, this book provides an introduction to the types of problems encountered and current available text mining solutions. The Text Mining Handbook Ronen Feldman, James Sanger, 2007 Text mining is a new and exciting area of computer science research that tries to solve the crisis of information overload by combining techniques from data mining, machine learning, natural language processing, information retrieval, and knowledge management. Similarly, link detection is a rapidly evolving approach to the analysis of text that shares and builds upon many of the key elements of text mining; also, it provides new tools for people to better leverage their burgeoning textual data resources. The Text Mining Handbook presents a comprehensive discussion of the state of the art in text mining and link detection. In addition to providing an in-depth examination of core text mining and link detection algorithms and operations, the book examines advanced pre-processing techniques, knowledge representation considerations, and visualization approaches. Finally, the book explores current real-world mission-critical applications of text mining and link detection in such varied fields as M/A business intelligence, genomics research, and counter-terrorism activities. Handbook of Research on Text and Web Mining Technologies Song, Min, Brook Wu, Yi-Fang, 2008-09-30 Examines recent advances and surveys of applications in text and web mining, which should be of interest to researchers and end users alike. Intelligent Text Categorization and Clustering Felipe M. G. França, Alberto Ferreira de Souza, 2008-10-01 Automatic Text Categorization and Clustering are becoming more and more important as the amount of text in electronic format grows and the access to it becomes more necessary and widespread. Well-known applications are spam filtering and web search, but a large number of everyday uses exist: intelligent web search, data mining, law enforcement, etc. Currently, researchers are employing many intelligent techniques for text categorization and clustering, ranging from support vector machines and neural networks to Bayesian inference and algebraic methods such as Latent Semantic Indexing. This volume offers a wide spectrum of research work developed for intelligent text categorization.

and clustering In the following we give a brief introduction of the chapters that are included in this book
