Reinventing Schools Charles M. Reigeluth, Jennifer R. Karnopp, 2013-07-01 Since A Nation at Risk was published in 1983 there has been widespread recognition that public education is failing in the U S Numerous expensive reforms have been attempted to no avail and costs have increased dramatically Furthermore economic austerity requires educational systems to do more with less This book presents convincing evidence that paradigm change such as the change of lighting systems from the candle to the light bulb is the only way to significantly improve student learning and simultaneously lower costs The authors provide a thought provoking vision of the new paradigm including a new brain based pedagogy a new professional role for teachers a new central role for technology and even a new more empowered role for students and parents The authors also describe three examples a school a school district and a school model that have implemented many features of the new paradigm along with evidence of their effectiveness Finally this book describes ways we can transform our Industrial

Age school systems to the new paradigm including ways our state and federal governments can help Learning, Design, and Technology J. Michael Spector, Barbara B. Lockee, Marcus D. Childress, 2023-10-14 The multiple related fields encompassed by this Major Reference Work represent a convergence of issues and topics germane to the rapidly changing segments of knowledge and practice in educational communications and technology at all levels and around the globe There is no other comparable work that is designed not only to gather vital current and evolving information and understandings in these knowledge segments but also to be updated on a continuing basis in order to keep pace with the rapid changes taking place in the relevant fields The Handbook is composed of substantive 5 000 to 15 000 words peer reviewed entries that examine and explicate seminal facets of learning theory research and practice It provides a broad range of relevant topics including significant developments as well as innovative uses of technology that promote learning performance and instruction This work is aimed at researchers designers developers instructors and other professional practitioners

Reimagining Instructional Supervision Francis M. Duffy, 2017-03-16 The history of instructional supervision has been relatively constant From the days when the first colonists arrived and established schools for their children until today instructional supervision has consistently focused on the critical examination of a teacher s classroom behavior with the assumption that supervising individual teachers could significantly improve teaching and learning throughout a school system That assumption has proven to be flawed The author believes that the focus of instructional supervision needs to shift off of individual teachers to focus on transforming the organization design and functioning of entire school systems Instead of observing teachers working in their classrooms a re imagined instructional supervision process would focus on transforming three sets of key system variables Transform the system s environmental relationships transform the system s core and support work processes and transform the system s internal social infrastructure Supervising Knowledge Work describes the salient features of a re imagined supervision process called Knowledge Work Supervision that is designed to transform entire school systems IJER Vol 11-N1 International Journal of Educational Reform, 2001-05-09 The mission of the International Journal of Educational Reform IJER is to keep readers up to date with worldwide developments in education reform by providing scholarly information and practical analysis from recognized international authorities As the only peer reviewed scholarly publication that combines authors voices without regard for the political affiliations perspectives or research methodologies IJER provides readers with a balanced view of all sides of the political and educational mainstream To this end IJER includes but is not limited to inquiry based and opinion pieces on developments in such areas as policy administration curriculum instruction law and research IJER should thus be of interest to professional educators with decision making roles and policymakers at all levels turn since it provides a broad based conversation between and among policymakers practitioners and academicians about reform goals objectives and methods for success throughout the world Readers can call on IJER to learn from an international group of reform implementers by discovering what they can do that has actually worked IJER can also help readers to understand the pitfalls of current reforms in order to avoid making similar mistakes Finally it is the mission of IJER to help readers to learn about key issues in school reform from movers and shakers who help to study and shape the power base directing educational reform in the U S and the world Thinking Creatively in Turbulent Times Howard F. Didsbury, Jr., Howard F. Didsbury, 2004 This outstanding collection of essays offers thought provoking insights on a range of future shaping issues such as harnessing the powers of a coming digital transformation creating more livable cities dealing with the impacts of immigration transforming school systems to meet the needs of the future economy solving the drug abuse problem through systems thinking and overcoming traps in thinking about the future

Moving Upward Together Francis M. Duffy, 2004-04-02 If school districts want to sustain improvements that have been achieved during this period of district transformation district leaders need to align their district both vertically and horizontally Alignment assures that the work of individuals supports their team goals the work of teams supports their school s goals the work of schools supports their clusters and the work of clusters supports the district s strategic direction This groundbreaking work presents qualitative information about the nature of strategic alignment in school systems and how to create and sustain it Power, Politics, and Ethics in School Districts Francis Martin Duffy, 2006 This book contributes to the literature on the ethical use of power and political skills to lead whole system change within school districts

Courage, Passion, and Vision Francis Martin Duffy, 2003 Offers an artful and compelling blend of practical theoretical and philosophical perspectives on leading systemic school improvement
