Stimulus Class Formation In Humans And Animals:

Stimulus Class Formation in Humans and Animals T.R. Zentall, P.M. Smeets, 1996-10-24 Stimulus class formation has been studied independently by two groups of researchers. One group has come out of a learning theory approach while the second has developed out of a behavior analytic tradition. The purpose of the present volume is to further establish the ties between these two research areas while allowing for differences in approach to the questions asked. The book is loosely organized around four themes. The first two sections deal with what constitutes functional and equivalence classes in animals and humans. In the third section the authors attempt to identify stimulus control variables that contribute to the formation of equivalence classes. The last section deals with the complex issue of the role of verbal behavior in equivalence classes. The goal of the book is to provide the reader with a better understanding of the current state of research and theory in stimulus class formation. It is also hoped that it will stimulate research into how and under what conditions stimulus classes can form.

Primate Origins of Human Cognition and Behavior Tetsuro Matsuzawa, 2009-03-12 Biologists and anthropologists in Japan have played a crucial role in the development of primatology as a scientific discipline. Publication of Primate Origins of Human Cognition and Behavior under the editorship of Tetsuro Matsuzawa reaffirms the pervasive and creative role played by the intellectual descendants of Kinji Imanishi and Junichiro Itani in the fields of behavioral ecology, psychology, and cognitive science. Matsuzawa and his colleagues, humans and other primate partners, explore a broad range of issues including the phylogeny of perception and cognition, the origin of human speech, learning and memory, recognition of self, others, and species, society and social interaction, and culture. With data from field and laboratory studies of more than 90 primate species and of more than 50 years of long term research, the intellectual breadth represented in this volume makes it a major contribution to comparative cognitive science and to current views on the origin of the mind and behavior of humans.

Relational Frame Theory Steven C. Hayes, Dermot Barnes-Holmes, Bryan Roche, 2005-11-30 This volume goes beyond theory and gives the empirical and conceptual tools to conduct an experimental analysis of virtually every substantive topic in human language and cognition, both basic and applied. It challenges behavioral psychology to abandon many of the specific theoretical formulations of its most prominent historical leader in the domain of complex human behavior, especially in human language and cognition, and approach the field from a new direction. It will be of interest to behavior theorists, cognitive psychologists, therapists, and educators.

The Alex Studies Irene M. PEPPERBERG,Irene M Pepperberg,2009-06-30 Can a parrot understand complex concepts and mean what it says Since the early 1900s most studies on animal human communication have focused on great apes and a few cetacean species Birds were rarely used in similar studies on the grounds that they were merely talented mimics that they were after all birdbrains Experiments performed primarily on pigeons in Skinner boxes demonstrated capacities inferior to those of mammals these results were thought to reflect the capacities of all birds despite evidence suggesting that species such as jays crows and parrots might be capable of more impressive cognitive feats Twenty years ago Irene Pepperberg set out to discover whether the results of the pigeon studies necessarily meant that other birds particularly the large brained highly social parrots were incapable of mastering complex cognitive concepts and the rudiments of referential speech Her investigation and the bird at its center a male Grey parrot named Alex have since become almost as well known as their primate equivalents and no less a subject of fierce debate in the field of animal cognition This book represents the long awaited synthesis of the studies constituting one of the landmark experiments in modern comparative psychology

Learning As Self-organization Karl H. Pribram, Joseph S. King, 2013-06-17 A year before his death B F Skinner wrote that There are two unavoidable gaps in any behavioral account one between the stimulating action of the environment and the response of the organism and one between consequences and the resulting change in behavior Only brain science can fill those gaps In doing so it completes the account it does not give a different account of the same thing This declaration ended the epoch of radical behaviorism to the extent that it was based on the doctrine of the empty organism the doctrine that a behavioral science must be constructed purely on its own level of investigation However Skinner was not completely correct in his assessment Brain science on its own can no more fill the gaps than can single level behavioral science It is the relation between data and formulations developed in the brain and the behavioral sciences that is needed This volume is the result of The Fourth Appalachian Conference on Behavioral Neurodynamics the first three of which were aimed at filling Skinner s first gap Taking the series in a new direction the aim of the fourth and subsequent conferences is to explore the second of the gaps in the behavioral account noted by Skinner The aim of this conference was to explore the aphorism The motivation for learning is self organization In keeping with this aim and in the spirit of previous events this conference s mission was to acquaint scientists working in one discipline with the work going on in other disciplines that is relevant to both As a result it brought together those who are making advances on the behavioral level mainly working in the tradition of operant conditioning and those working with brains mainly amygdala hippocampus and far frontal cortex

The Evolution of Cognition Cecilia M. Heyes, Ludwig Huber, 2000 In the last decade evolutionary psychology has come to refer exclusively to research on human mentality and behavior motivated by a nativist interpretation of how evolution operates This book encompasses the behavior and mentality of nonhuman as well as human animals and a full range of evolutionary approaches Rather than a collection by and for the like minded it is a debate about how evolutionary processes have shaped cognition The debate is divided into five sections Orientations on the phylogenetic ecological and psychological comparative approaches to the evolution of cognition Categorization on how various animals parse their environments how they represent objects and events and the relations among them Causality on whether and in what ways nonhuman animals represent cause and effect relationships Consciousness on whether it makes sense to talk about the evolution of consciousness and whether the phenomenon can be investigated empirically in nonhuman animals and Culture on the cognitive requirements for nongenetic transmission of information and the evolutionary consequences of such cultural exchange Contributors Bernard Balleine Patrick Bateson Michael J Beran M E Bitterman Robert Boyd Nicola Clayton Juan Delius Anthony Dickinson Robin Dunbar D P Griffiths Bernd Heinrich Cecilia Heyes William A Hillix Ludwig Huber Nicholas Humphrey Masako Jitsumori Louis Lefebvre Nicholas Mackintosh Euan M Macphail Peter Richerson Duane M Rumbaugh Sara Shettleworth Martina Siemann Kim Sterelny Michael Tomasello Laura Weiser Alexandra Wells Carolyn Wilczynski David Sloan Wilson Field and Laboratory Methods in Animal Cognition Nereida Bueno-Guerra, Federica Amici, 2018-08-09 Would you ask a honeybee to point at a screen and recognise a facial expression Or ask an elephant to climb a tree While humans and non human species may inhabit the same world it s likely that our perceptual worlds differ significantly Emphasising Uexk ll s concept of umwelt this volume offers practical advice on how animal cognition can be successfully tested while avoiding anthropomorphic conclusions The chapters describe the capabilities of a range of animals from ants to lizards to chimpanzees revealing how to successfully investigate animal cognition across a variety of taxa The book features contributions from leading cognition researchers each offering a series of examples and practical tips drawn from their own experience Together the authors synthesise information on current field and laboratory methods providing researchers and graduate students with methodological advice on how to formulate research questions design experiments and adapt studies to different taxa
