Re-Covering Modernism David Earle, 2016-03-03 In the first half of the twentieth century modernist works appeared not only in obscure little magazines and books published by tiny exclusive presses but also in literary reprint magazines of the 1920s tawdry pulp magazines of the 1930s and lurid paperbacks of the 1940s In his nuanced exploration of the publishing and marketing of modernist works David M Earle questions how and why modernist literature came to be viewed as the exclusive purview of a cultural elite given its availability in such popular forums As he examines sensational and popular manifestations of modernism as well as their reception by critics and readers Earle provides a methodology for reconciling formerly separate or contradictory materialist cultural visual and modernist approaches to avant garde literature Central to Earle's innovative approach is his consideration of the physical aspects of the books and magazines covers dust wrappers illustrations cost which become texts in their own right Richly illustrated and accessibly written Earle's study shows that modernism emerged in a publishing ecosystem that was both richer and more complex than has been previously documented

Kenneth Burke in Greenwich Village Jack Selzer, 1996-12-01 Capturing the lively modernist milieu of Kenneth Burke's early career in Greenwich Village where Burke arrived in 1915 fresh from high school in Pittsburgh this book discovers him as an intellectual apprentice conversing with the moderns Burke found himself in the midst of an avant garde peopled by Malcolm Cowley Marianne Moore Jean Toomer Katherine Anne Porter William Carlos Williams Allen Tate Hart Crane Alfred Stieglitz and a host of other fascinating figures Burke himself who died in 1993 at the age of 96 has been hailed as America's most brilliant and suggestive critic and the most significant theorist of rhetoric since Cicero Many schools of thought have claimed him as their own but Burke has defied classification and indeed has often been considered a solitary eccentric genius immune to intellectual fashions But Burke's formative work of the 1920s when he first defined himself and his work in the context of the modernist conversation has gone relatively unexamined Here we see Burke living and working with the crowd of poets painters and dramatists affiliated with Others magazine Stieglitz's 291 gallery and Eugene O'Neill's Provincetown Players the leftists associated with the magazines The Masses and Seven Arts the

Dadaists and the modernist writers working on literary journals like The Dial where Burke in his capacity as an associate editor saw T S Eliot's The Wasteland into print for the first time and provided other editorial services for Thomas Mann and e cummings Ezra Pound and many other writers of note Burke also met the iconoclasts of the older generation represented by Theodore Dreiser and H L Mencken the New Humanists and the literary nationalists who founded Contact and The New Republic Jack Selzer shows how Burke's own early poems fiction and essays emerged from and contributed to the modernist conversation in Greenwich Village He draws on a wonderfully rich array of letters between Burke and his modernist friends and on the memoirs of his associates to create a vibrant portrait of the young Burke's transformation from aesthete to social critic
