The Second Language Learning Processes of Students with Specific Learning Difficulties is the only recent book available to offer a detailed and in depth discussion of the second language learning processes of students with specific learning difficulties SpLDs It summarizes research advances in the fields of cognitive and educational psychology and integrates them with recent studies in the area of second language acquisition SLA Thus the book is relevant not only to readers who are particularly interested in the role of specific learning difficulties in learning additional languages but also to those who would like to understand how individual differences in cognitive functioning influence SLA The book focuses on four important areas that are particularly relevant for language learners with SpLDs the processes of SLA in general and the development of reading skills in particular the effectiveness of pedagogical programs the assessment of the language competence of students with SpLDs and identifying SpLDs in another language The book also views learners with SpLDs in their social and educational contexts and elaborates how the barriers in these contexts can affect their language learning processes This is an excellent resource for language teachers students and researchers in the areas of second language acquisition and applied linguistics      The Safety Anarchist Sidney Dekker,2017-10-19 Work has never been as safe as it seems today Safety has also never been as bureaucratized as it is today Over the past two decades the number of safety rules and statutes has exploded and organizations themselves are creating ever more internal compliance requirements At the same time progress on safety has slowed to a crawl Many incident and injury rates have flatlined Worse excellent safety performance on low consequence events tends to increase the risk of fatalities and disasters Bureaucracy and compliance now seem less about managing the safety of the workers we are responsible for and more about managing the liability of the people they work for We make workers do a lot that does nothing to improve their success locally Paradoxically such tightening of safety bureaucracy robs us of exactly the source of human insight creativity and resilience that can tell us how success is actually created and where the next accident may well happen It is time for Safety Anarchists people who trust people more than process who rely on horizontally coordinating experiences and innovations who push back against petty rules and coercive compliance and who help recover the dignity and expertise of human work
