Handbook of Behavioral Group Therapy Dennis Upper, Steven M. Ross, 2013-11-11 In 1977 the current editors contributed a review article on behavioral group therapy to a volume of Hersen Miller and Eisler's Progress in Behavior Modification series 1977 At that time we noted that despite the advantages to both clinicians and clients of conducting behavioral treatments in groups clinical developments and research in this area were still at a relatively rudimentary level The majority of studies in the behavioral group therapy literature we reviewed reported the direct transfer of an individual behavior therapy procedure such as systematic desensitization to a group of clients with homogeneous problems such as snake phobia or test anxiety Groups were used in many studies merely to generate sufficient numbers of subjects to allow various types of interventions to be compared rather than to examine group process variables per se Only a limited amount of attention had been given to whether these group interaction variables such as group discussion sharing ideas and feelings and mutual feedback and reinforcement might enhance individually oriented procedures applied in a group The 8 years since this original chapter was written have seen a significant growth in both the breadth and depth of clinical research and work in the behavioral group therapy field This growth was documented in part in a three volume series on behavioral group therapy by the current editors Upper Ross 1979 1980 1981 while you create 3D magic Handbook of Scales for Research in Crime and Delinquency Stanley L. Brodsky, H. O'Neal Smitherman, 2013-06-29 In contrast to the great diversity of other crime and delinquency research measures those drawn from the CPI and the MMPI have much in common They are taken from standardized instruments administered under controlled conditions with known stimulus properties and validity indicators The CPI and MMPI measures will frequently be instruments of choice in research on personality and psychodynamics of offenders CHAPTER 6 Law Enforcement and Police This chapter encompasses a variety of scales that refer to law enforcement or police agencies Unfortunately in the case of many scales these terms are used simply with the assumption that the respondents understand the concepts and use them in the same way as researchers In other cases however specific policing functions are identified and described As noted in Chapter 3 a standard order of scale presentation is followed First the attitudes scales are presented followed by the behavior ratings per sonality measures milieu ratings prediction measures and finally the very broad category of description After the reviews are completed within each subcategory other scales in that category are listed See Chapter 2 for a description of the criteria that were used in deciding upon whether a scale would be reviewed or simply listed Listed scales are presented by title and bibliographic reference followed by a very brief description
