Making America / Making American Literature, 2021-11-01 If 1776 heralds America's Birth of the Nation so too it witnesses the rise of a matching and overlapping American Literature For between the 1770s and the 1820s American writing moves on from the ancestral Puritanism of New England and Virginia though not as yet into the American Renaissance so strikingly called for by Ralph Waldo Emerson Even so the concourse of voices which arise in this period that is between and including Benjamin Franklin and James Fenimore Cooper mark both a key transitional literary generation and yet one all too easily passed over in its own imaginative right This collection of fifteen specially commissioned essays seeks to establish new bearings a revision of one of the key political and literary eras in American culture Not only are Franklin and Cooper themselves carefully re-evaluated in the making of America's new literary republic but figures like Charles Brockden Brown Washington Irving Philip Freneau William Cullen Bryant the other Alexander Hamilton and the playwrights Royall Tyler and William Dunlop Other essays take a more inclusive perspective whether American epistolary fiction a first generation of American women authored fiction the public discourse of The Federalist Papers the rise of the American periodical or the founding African American generation of Phillis Wheatley What unites all the essays is the common assumption that the making of America was as much a matter of creating its national literature as the making of American literature was a matter of shaping a national identity

History, Abolition, and the Ever-Present Now in Antebellum American

Writing Jeffrey Insko, 2018-12-06 The Ever Present Now examines the meaning and possibilities of the present and its relationship to history and historicity in a number of literary texts specifically the writings of several figures in antebellum US literary history some but not all of whom associated with the period's romantic movement Focusing on nineteenth century writers who were impatient for social change like those advocating for the immediate emancipation of slaves as opposed to those planning for a gradual end to slavery the book recovers some of the political force of romanticism Through close readings of texts by Washington Irving John Neal Catharine Sedgwick Frederick Douglass Ralph Waldo Emerson and Herman Melville Insko argues that these writers practiced forms of literary historiography that treat the past as neither a reflection of present interests nor as an irretrievably distant other but as a complex and open ended interaction between the two In place of a fixed and linear past these writers imagine history as an experience rooted in a fluid dynamic and ever changing present The political philosophical and aesthetic disposition Insko calls romantic presentism insists upon the present as the fundamental sphere of human action and experience and hence of ethics and democratic possibility Washington Irving and the Fantasy of Masculinity Heinz Tschachler, 2022-02-02 Washington Irving remains one of the most recognized American authors of the 19th century remembered for short stories like Rip van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow He also accomplished other writing feats including penning George Washington's biography and other life stories Throughout his life Irving was at odds with socially approved ways of being a man Irving purportedly saw himself and was seen by others as feminine shy and non confrontational Likely related to this he chose to engage with other men's fortunes and adventures by writing defining his male identity vicariously through masculine archetypes both fictional and non fictional Sitting at the intersection of literary studies and masculinity studies this reading reconstructs Irving's life long struggle to somehow win a place among other men Readers will recognize masculine themes in his tales from the Spanish period his western adventures as well as in historical biographies of Columbus Mahomet and Washington In many writings by Irving especially Sleepy Hollow readers will observe themes dominated by masculinity The book is the first of its kind to encompass and examine Irving's writings Homes and Haunts Alison Booth, 2016-09-08 This is the first full length study of literary tourism in North America as well as Britain and a unique exploration of popular response to writers literary house museums and the landscapes or countries associated with their lives and works An interdisciplinary study ranging from 1820 1940 Homes and Haunts Touring Writers Shrines and Countries unites museum and tourism studies book history narrative theory theories of gender space and things and other approaches to depict and interpret the haunting experiences of exhibited houses and the curious history of topo biographical writing about famous authors In illustrated chapters that blend Victorian and recent first person encounters that range from literary shrines and plaques to guidebooks memoirs portraits and monuments Alison Booth discusses pilgrims such as William and Mary Howitt Anna Maria and Samuel Hall and Elbert Hubbard and magnetic hosts and guests as Washington Irving Wordsworth Martineau Longfellow Hawthorne James and Dickens Virginia Woolf's feminist response to homes and haunts shapes a chapter on Mary Russell Mitford Gaskell and the Brontës and another on the Carlyles house and Monk's House Booth rediscovers collections of personalities haunted shrines and imaginative re-enactments that have been submerged by a century of academic literary criticism

Washington Irving's Critique of American Culture J. Woodrow McCree, 2021-06-24 Washington Irving's Critique of American Culture Sketching a Vision of World Citizenship challenges long standing views of Washington Irving He has been portrayed as writing in the 18th century style of Addison and Goldsmith without having much substance of his own Irving has also been accused of being insufficiently American and adrift in an identity crisis The author argues that Irving addressed the American cultural context very extensively he was a writer of substance who articulated an ethic of world citizenship that was found in the philosophy of ancient Greek cynics and stoics This ethic was united with a love of picturesque travel which emphasized variety and texture in experience resulting in an extraordinary affirmation of the value of cultural diversity in the new Republic Irving was in fact a liminal figure straddling Romantic and neoclassical modes of writing and acting The author draws attention to Irving's success as a writer in the pictorial mode Irving also expressed a critique of cultural loss and environmental destruction like that articulated by the artist Thomas Cole The work embraces an interdisciplinary approach where insights from philosophy religion art history and social history shed light on an underestimated writer

Enlightenment Orientalism in the American Mind, 1770-1807 Matthew H. Pangborn, 2018-09-07 This study engages with the emerging field of energy humanities to provide close readings of several early American oriental observer tales The popular genre of orientalism offered Americans a means to critique new ideas of identity history and nationality accompanying protoindustrialization and a growing consumerism The tales thus express a complex self-reflection during a time when America's exploitation of its energy resources and its engagement in a Franco-British world system was transforming the daily life of its citizens The genre of the oriental observer this study argues offers intriguing glimpses of a nation becoming strange in the eyes of its own inhabitants
