The Origin and Nature of the Emotions George Washington Crile, 1915 The Origin and nature of the emotions c.2
George Washington Crile, 1915 Presents a series of miscellaneous papers on the physiology of emotion In the first of these addresses the Ether Day Address delivered at the Massachusetts General Hospital in October 1910 I first enunciated the Kinetic Theory of Shock the key to which was found in laboratory researches and in a study of Darwin's Expression of the Emotions in Man and in Animals whereby the phylogenetic origin of the emotions was made manifest and the pathologic identity of surgical and emotional shock was established Since 1910 my associates and I have continued our researches through a Histologic studies of all the organs and tissues of the body b Estimation of the H ion concentration of the blood in the emotions of anger and fear and after the application of many other forms of stimuli c Functional tests of the adrenals and d Clinical observations Striking changes produced by fear and anger and by physical trauma in the brain were also investigated in other organs Many of the arguments and illustrations by which the primary premises were established are repeated a few in all many in more than one of these addresses It will be observed however that the application of these premises varies and that their significance broadens progressively Pref PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved Index-catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon-General's Office, United States Army National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1972 The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, 1915 Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, 1915

Johnson, 2005-01-13 What holds together the various fields that are supposed to constitute the general intellectual discipline that people now call cognitive science In this book Erneling and Johnson identify two problems with defining this discipline First some theorists identify the common subject matter as the mind but scientists and philosophers have not been able to agree on any single satisfactory answer to the question of what the mind is Second those who speculate about the general characteristics that belong to cognitive science tend to assume that all the particular fields falling under the rubric psychology linguistics biology and son on are of roughly equal value in their ability to shed light on the nature of mind This book argues that all the cognitive science disciplines are not equally able to provide answers to ontological questions about the mind but rather that only neurophysiology and cultural psychology are suited to answer these questions However since the cultural account of mind has long been ignored in favor of the neurophysiological account Erneling and Johnson bring together contributions that focus especially on different versions of the cultural account of the mind The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956
