Marshall, 2017-07-05 Sculpture and the Museum is the first in depth examination of the varying roles and meanings assigned to sculpture in museums and galleries during the modern period from neo classical to contemporary art practice It considers a rich array of curatorial strategies and settings in order to examine the many reasons why sculpture has enjoyed a position of such considerable importance and complexity within the institutional framework of the museum and how changes to the museum have altered in turn the ways that we perceive the sculpture within it In particular the contributors consider the complex issue of how best to display sculpture across different periods and according to varying curatorial philosophies Sculptors discussed include Canova Rodin Henry Moore Flaxman and contemporary artists such as Rebecca Horn Rachel Whiteread Mark Dion and Olafur Eliasson with a variety of museums in America Canada and Europe presented as case studies Underlying all of these discussions is a concern to chart the critical importance of the acquisition placement and display of sculpture in museums and to explore the importance of sculptures as a forum for the expression of programmatic statements of power prestige and the museum s own sense of itself in relation to its audiences and its broader institutional aspirations The Renaissance, English Cultural Nationalism, and Modernism, 1860-1920 L. Centre Pompidou offer new insights into how art as photography and photography as art have been collected and exhibited since the 1930s Moschovi argues that this accommodation not only changed photography's status in art culture and society but also played a significant role in the rebranding of the art museum as a cultural and social site Post Critical

Museology Andrew Dewdney, David Dibosa, Victoria Walsh, 2013-01-25 Post Critical Museology considers what the role of the public and the experience of audiences means to the everyday work of the art museum. It does this from the perspectives of the art museum itself as well as from the visitors it seeks. Through the analysis of material gathered from a major collaborative research project carried out at Tate Britain in London, the book develops a conceptual reconfiguration of the relationship between art culture and society in which questions about the art museum's relationship to global migration and the new media ecologies are examined. It suggests that whilst European museums have previously been studied as institutions of collection, heritage and tradition, however modern, their focus is now better to consider them as distributive networks in which value travels along transmedial and transcultural lines. Post Critical Museology is intended as a contribution to progressive museological thinking and practice and calls for a new alignment of academics and professionals in what it announces as post critical museology. An alignment that is committed to rethinking what an art museum in the twenty first century could be as well as what knowledge and understanding its future practitioners might draw upon in a rapidly changing social and cultural context. The book aims to be essential reading in the growing field of museum studies. It will also be of professional interest to all those working in the cultural sphere including museum professionals, policy makers and art managers. ART AND MASCULINITY IN POST-WAR BRITAIN Gregory Salter (Art historian), 2019 Modern English Biography Frederic Boase, 1921 Museums Journal Elijah Howarth, F.
