The Tattered China Card Robert L. Downen, 1984      China Stands Up David Scott, 2007-05-21 In 1949 Mao Zedong made the historic proclamation that the Chinese people have stood up This statement was significant undoubtedly reflecting the changing nature not only of China's self perception but also of its relationship with the rest of the world In terms of reducing the imperialist presence of the West and Japan within China and reasserting China's territorial integrity and legal sovereignty to the outside world Mao and China can indeed be seen to have successfully stood up However the development of China's position in the hitherto Western dominated international system has been more ambiguous In China Stands Up David Scott examines the PRC's presence in the international system from 1949 to the present and also looks forward to the future asking How do we define the rise of China How does China see its role in the world What shapes China's role How do international actors view China's role in the international community Has China risen in any real sense Engaging with a rich tapestry of sources and imagery ranging from governmental media academic and popular settings and bridging the divide between history and international relations this book will appeal to students and scholars of both these fields as well as those interested in Chinese politics and foreign policy separation of powers controversy between the executive legislative and judicial branches of government Victoria Marie Kraft examines the important legal issues and the broader questions of constitutional law and process raised within the context of this controversy Does the president have the constitutional power to terminate a duly enacted treaty without congressional assent When is it constitutionally permissible for a president to act unilaterally in foreign affairs When is congressional consultation required and does the burden of consultation lie with Congress or with the executive branch The role of the courts in resolving disputes between Congress and the president over the proper constitutional allocation of foreign policy making power is thoroughly scrutinized as are the long and short term effects on foreign policy of confrontational modes of interaction between the president and Congress Chapter One traces the history of executive legislative collaboration on China policy between 1949 and 1976 and underlines the role of Congress in formulating U S China policy which later created the legitimate expectation in Congress that active congressional participation in that area would continue In Chapter Two the rationale behind Carter s decision and his reasons for making that decision without consulting Congress are considered in depth The traditional role of the federal courts in resolving foreign policy making conflicts between Congress and the president is analyzed using Goldwater v Carter as a starting point in Chapter Three The last two chapters document the legislative history and constitutional controversy surrounding the Taiwan Relations Act and use the lessons of the China normalization controversy to develop a useful standard for assessing the constitutional propriety of unilateral foreign policy making by the president Invaluable supplemental reading for courses in Constitutional Law Foreign Policy the Presidency and American Government this volume provides a comprehensive understanding of the vital relationships among Congress the president the judiciary and the constitution
