Bird,1970 Taxing Agricultural Land in Developing Countries Richard Miller Bird,1974 Study explaining and trying to reconcile differences between theory and practice of agricultural taxation Multinational Corporations and the Politics of Dependence Theodore H.

Moran,2014-07-14 This study deals with a topic of increasing concern the relations between multinational corporations and their host countries in the Third World Theodore H Moran describes how a reaction against dependencia a realization that the fate of the nation hinges on the decisions made by uncontrollable outside forces can spur a host country to opt for control of an industry exposing the country to new dangers as well as new opportunities Originally published in 1975 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Property Tax Reform in Developing Countries Jay K. Rosengard,2012-12-06 Property Tax Reform in Developing Countries provides a conceptual framework for property tax reform with the intention of making the most compelling argument possible to persuade the reader as to its validity The text claims that a model for property tax reform in developing countries is derived from a theoretical distillation of empirical experience The primary objective of this study is to establish through logic theory and observation what constitutes a good property tax system for whom and under what conditions why such a system works and how inferior systems can be upgraded to approximate well functioning systems Property Tax Reform in Developing Countries develops its examination in three stages First a conceptual framework is presented for the formulation implementation and evaluation of property tax reform in developing countries Second attempts to reform property taxation in four developing countries are examined in detail Finally the results of the reform efforts described in the four case studies are evaluated and guidelines for reform are offered The study concludes with specific recommendations for reforming property tax systems in developing countries based on the conceptual framework and synthesizing lessons of the case studies Latin American University Students Arthur Liebman,Kenneth N.

Walker,Myron Glazer,1972 Why does the interaction between Latin American students and the Latin American university typically an archaic socially insulated institution regularly produce a significant number of students opposed to their governments and to the existing social structure To answer this question the authors of this comparative study of student political attitudes and behavior questioned students at eleven universities in six culturally similar but economically and governmentally different Latin American countries Colombia Mexico Panama Paraguay Puerto Rico and Uruguay
