Monitoring Report - 2013-2014 - Teaching and Learning Achieving quality for all UNESCO,2014-02-04 The 2013 2014 Education for All Global Monitoring Report shows that a lack of attention to education quality and a failure to reach the marginalized have contributed to a learning crisis that needs urgent attention Worldwide 250 million children many of them from disadvantaged backgrounds are not learning the basics Teaching and Learning Achieving Quality for All describes how policy makers can support and sustain a quality education system for all children regardless of background by providing the best teachers The Report also documents global progress in achieving Education for All goals and provides lessons for setting a new education agenda post 2015 In addition the Report identifies that insufficient financing is hindering advances in education Supporting Transfer Student Success Peggy L. Nuhn, Karen F. Kaufmann, 2020-11-06 This research based book with practical applications teaches academic librarians to support their transfer students effectively at both universities and community colleges even when transfer students information literacy needs differ from those of other students Colleges and universities across the United States serve a large and growing population of transfer students Current estimates suggest that more than one third of college students transfer from one institution of higher education to another at least once At some institutions transfer students compose up to fifty to sixty percent of the new incoming class Academic librarians understanding of the demographics and potential needs of transfer students is essential to supporting their success and mitigating transfer shock Just as public libraries often bridge gaps between individuals and services academic libraries can proactively support the often unique needs of transfer students by spearheading textbook affordability initiatives developing innovative programming and making appropriate referrals to non library student services In this practical guide to supporting transfer students authors Peggy L Nuhn and Karen F Kaufmann teach academic librarians how to optimize information literacy instruction support research help reduce stress and connect the library to virtual students They emphasize the importance of establishing partnerships with feeder institutions and other campus departments to best support transfer student success Community College Teacher Preparation for Diverse Geographies Mark M. D'Amico, Chance W. Lewis, 2019-07-01 Community colleges serve as the open door to higher education for marginalized place bound and or financially challenged students and communities One of the key ways marginalization occurs in diverse geographies is through access limitations access to affordable postsecondary education access to curricula that lead to viable professions access to diverse educational role models and access to employment opportunities that can sustain communities This underscores the importance of understanding place when addressing access and equity in higher education and the role of community colleges The discussion of access and equity through the community college has implications for teacher education Considering the documented importance of having a diverse teacher workforce in K 12 schools and the current mismatch between the diversity of students and the teachers in their schools community colleges have a significant role to play This book explores many topics related to the community college role in K 12 teacher education including the community college mission the policy landscape partnerships the transfer function the community college baccalaureate and others Throughout the volume the authors explore implications of access equity and geography and conclude with recommendations to guide future research and practice Programmed Therapy FOR STUTTERING in Children and Adults Bruce P. Ryan, 2001-01-01 The goal of this book is to call attention to a systematic scientific approach to studying and treating stuttering via the strategies of operant conditioning learning theory and single subject research design Another purpose is to present the data collected and or published over the past 30 years in one place for evaluation and comparison This new edition starts with a brief introductory chapter including the basic principles of operant analysis Chapter 2 covers the mechanics of charting counting and computing stuttering and speaking rates Chapter 3 describes evaluation with both new data and forms Chapter 4 is on programming and Chapter 5 highlights the two present major establishment programs Delayed Auditory Feedback DAF Prolongation and Gradual Increase in Length and Complexity of Utterance GILCU Chapter 6 discusses transfer and maintenance programs and follow up while Chapter 7 presents long term individual client performances in several programs Chapter 8 covers the preschool stuttering child and Chapter 9 describes efforts at and results of dissemination through training Chapter 10 is a summary of efficacy data published over recent years and Chapter 11 provides conclusions discussion of problems and suggested directions for future clinical research Because it uniquely combines behavior modification remediation of a well known but perplexing disorder and the most up to date clinical research this outstanding new edition will serve as a great resource to anyone involved in the treatment of speech disorders required to enable learners to take ownership of their learning Student centeredness concepts are still prescriptive in nature as most decisions on curriculum assessment teaching and learning approaches are still teacher centric Teachers are developing student centered learning environments without the involvement of the learners in the planning decision making and or design process In addition some lecturers are still practicing the traditional approaches of content delivery and conventional assessment methods rather than experimenting with innovative practices suited for student centered approaches Therefore there is an ongoing need for research focused on the importance and effectiveness of a paradigm shift in education that involves student teacher partnerships fueled by innovative teaching and learning designs where students take an active role and contribute as partners in learning Transforming Curriculum Through Teacher Learner Partnerships captures experiences and evidence among teachers in exploring the possibility of active student participation in curriculum design delivery and assessment through teacher learner partnership The chapters address issues of teacher learner partnerships in designing the learning environment and how student centered methods create resilient adaptable and future capable learners While highlighting topics within this scope such as learner autonomy learning performance self efficacy and teaching pedagogy this book is ideally intended for teachers administrators teacher educators practitioners stakeholders researchers academicians and students interested in issues related to the teacher learner partnership

Leading Change in Teacher Education Thuwayba Al Barwani, Maria Assunção Flores, David Imig, 2018-12-12 The international attempt to expand schooling despite dealing with an insufficient number of trained teachers has placed significant pressure on teacher education Continued effort to change all aspects of teacher education including ways of learning methods of practice institution interaction and assessment of teaching ability in order to fulfil the desire to offer inclusive and equitable teaching for all is a serious consideration In response to this increased attention on cross national campaigns Leading Change in Teacher Education features discussions covering what has been done how and why the change has happened the journey itself and the challenges encountered along the way alongside contributions from international academics who share their reflections and suggestions for a way forward despite a global shortage of teachers Strategies surrounding the design and delivery of education now centre on improving how teachers are prepared supported and evaluated Leading Change in Teacher Education captures the stories of international change leaders by Providing details of both the successes and challenges faced Presenting innovative practices in teacher education from around the world Describing the strategies put in place to ensure that teacher education is developing The topics discussed are relevant for educators policymakers and international organizations involved in the design and implementation of programmes in teacher education Leading Change in Teacher Education is also an invaluable resource for those looking to increase the changes occurring within teacher education
