Voices from the Other Side of Death Ariel Dorfman, 2022-06-15 In his new collection poet Ariel Dorfman explores death grief and redemption hoping that the light I have invented the words with which we have all been blessed will sweeten the death that fast approaches for me The famed writer academic and activist writes about intimate family matters and revisits recurring themes in his work including war social justice and climate change In a series of poems written from the perspective of deceased historical figures to contemporary politicians and soldiers he warns about the need for reckoning and atonement In one Pablo Picasso speaks to Colin Powell asking why his famous painting depicting the horror of war Guernica was covered when the secretary of state spoke about the invasion of Iraq at the United Nations Were you afraid that the mother would leap from her image and say no he is the one they are the ones who will bomb from afar they are the ones who will kill the child In another Salvador Allende encourages Barack Obama to fight for his beliefs So that when you arrive on these shores and look back as I do you will have no regrets Others explore connections to loved ones including the love of my life Angelica the woman who helped me survive exile and tribulations and peopled my world with hope He writes about the passionate love the Mughal emperor Shah Jahan felt for his wife which led to the construction of the Taj Mahal and imagines conversations between William Shakespeare and Miguel de Cervantes who died within hours of each other Neither escaped the iron rule of mortality The story of our own death is the one experience we are unable to transmit to anybody else Though written by an internationally acclaimed intellectual these incredibly moving poems share the most human of emotions and expose Dorfman s vulnerability as he embarks on the last leg of his journey The Other
