Trigger, 2006-09-11 In its original edition Bruce Trigger's book was the first ever to examine the history of archaeological thought from medieval times to the present in world wide perspective Now in this new edition he both updates the original work and introduces new archaeological perspectives and concerns At once stimulating and even handed it places the development of archaeological thought and theory throughout within a broad social and intellectual framework The successive but interacting trends apparent in archaeological thought are defined and the author seeks to determine the extent to which these trends were a reflection of the personal and collective interests of archaeologists as these relate in the West at least to the fluctuating fortunes of the middle classes While subjective influences have been powerful Professor Trigger argues that the gradual accumulation of archaeological data has exercised a growing constraint on interpretation In turn this has increased the objectivity of archaeological research and enhanced its value for understanding the entire span of human history and the human condition in general Ancient Pakistan - An Archaeological History Mukhtar Ahmed, 2014-10-15 This book is the second volume of a much larger project Ancient Pakistan An Archaeological History which deals with the prehistory of Pakistan from the Stone Age to the end of the Indus Civilization ca 1500 BC This particular volume A Prelude to Civilization is concerned with the beginning of agriculture sedentary living and the emergence of village farming communities in the Greater Indus Valley leaving the reader at the threshold of the Harappan Civilization The material is generously illustrated with a large number of maps tables drawings and photographs A comprehensive bibliography is provided for those who want to dig deeper into the subject Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Michael B Schiffer, 2014-06-30 Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Volume 5 presents the progressive explorations in methods and theory in archeology This book provides information pertinent to the developments in urban archeology Organized into nine chapters this volume begins with an overview of cultural resource management developed to assess the significance of and to manage the cultural resources on public lands This text then explores the basic aspects of natural and human caused changes on the portion of the archaeological resource base consisting of archaeological

David Hopkins, Charles Martindale, Norman Vance, Rita Copeland, Patrick Cheney, Jennifer Wallace, Philip R. Hardie, 2012 The Oxford History of Classical Reception OHCREL is designed to offer a comprehensive investigation of the numerous and diverse ways in which literary texts of the classical world have stimulated responses and refashioning by English writers Covering the full range of English literature from the early Middle Ages to the present day OHCREL both synthesizes existing scholarship and presents cutting edge new research employing an international team of expert contributors for each of the five volumes OHCREL endeavours to interrogate rather than inertly reiterate conventional assumptions about literary periods the processes of canon formation and the relations between literary and non literary discourse It conceives of reception as a complex process of dialogic exchange and rather than offering large cultural generalizations it engages in close critical analysis of literary texts It explores in detail the ways in which English writers engagement with classical literature casts as much light on the classical originals as it does on the English writers own cultural context This fourth volume and second to appear in the series covers the years 1790 1880 and explores romantic and Victorian receptions of the classics Noting the changing fortunes of particular classical authors and the influence of developments in archaeology aesthetics and education it traces the interplay between classical and nineteenth century
