Raising Emotionally Healthy Boys Michael Reist,2015-07-25 Raising emotionally healthy children is not just about what we need to do but what we need to avoid doing We all know that repressing our feelings can be damaging and that emotional repression is an especially prevalent issue among males From a very young age boys are socialized to hide their emotions Girls on the other hand are encouraged to learn a much broader range of emotional expression The long term repercussions of this imbalance are profound Many of the problems we face both as a society and as a species are directly affected by how we raise our boys We are all products of nature and nurture combined The conscious and unconscious lessons we give our children often enhance and improve their human natures but can sometimes degrade them too As we come to the end of thousands of years of patriarchy we are being challenged to redefine masculinity Our boys are lucky to be living in such a time and luckier when they have adults in their lives who are aware of how their minds function and what they need If we want to raise men who are strong confident and whole in the best sense of these words then parents around the world urgently need a conversation about what we teach and don t teach our boys research on temperament during the last decade has been re corded by several authors e g R Plomin J E Bates from such sources of informa tion as the Social Sciences Citation Index or Psychological Abstracts The editors inquiry shows that the number of cases in which the term temperament was used in the title of a paper or in the paper s abstract published in Psychological Abstracts reveals an essential increase in research on temperament During the years 1975 to 1979 the term temperament was used in the title and or summary of 173 abstracts i e 34 6 publications per year during the next five years 1980 1984 it was used in 367 abstracts 73 4 publications per year whereas in the last five years 1985 to 1989 the term has appeared in 463 abstracts that is in 92 6 publications per year Even if the review of temperament literature is restricted to those abstracts it can easily be concluded that temperament is used in different contexts and with different meanings hardly allowing any comparisons or general statements One of the consequences of this state of affairs is that our knowledge on temperament does not cumulate despite the increasing research activity in this field This situation in temperament research motivated the editors to organize a one week workshop on The Diagnosis of Temperament Bielefeld Federal Republic of Germany September 1987 Attention Deficit Disorder Patricia O. Individuals as Producers of Their Development Richard M Lerner,Nancy A. Busch-Rossnagel,2013-09-03

Individuals as Producers of Their Development A Life Span Perspective provides an assessment of the usefulness of viewing the individual as an active contributor to his or her development It extends the breadth of organism environment reciprocities beyond those involved with the child and family On the one hand this extension involves a consideration of the role of evolutionary biological processes on the other it pertains to the broader ecology of human development the social network lying outside the family and the physical environmental contexts of development Person context reciprocities linked to variables that may play their greatest role in the extrafamilial context are also considered Variables such as physical attractiveness race and physical handicap are examples of those discussed in this regard Finally because of the greater scope of the analysis a potentially greater data base is examined in a search for documentation of the presence and role of dynamic person context interactions
