Crystal,2010-09-23 What do the following have in common Let there be light A fly in the ointment A rod of iron New wine in old bottles Lick the dust How are the mighty fallen Kick against the pricks Wheels within wheels They are all in the King James Bible This astonishing book has contributed far more to English in the way of idiomatic or quasi proverbial expressions than any other literary source So wrote David Crystal in 2004 In Begat he returns to the subject not only to consider how a work published in 1611 could have had such influence on the language but how it can still do so when few regularly hear the Bible and fewer still hear it in the language of Stuart England No other version of the Bible however popular such as the Good News Bible or imposed upon the church like the New English Bible has had anything like the same influence David Crystal shows how its words and phrases have over the centuries found independent life in the work of poets playwrights novelists politicians and journalists and how more recently they have been taken up with enthusiasm by advertisers Hollywood and hip hop Yet the King James Bible owes much to earlier English versions notably those by John Wycliffe in the fourteenth century and William Tyndale in the sixteenth David Crystal reveals how much that is memorable in the King James Bible stems from its forebears At the same time he shows how crucial were the revisions made by King James's team of translators and editors A person who professes to be a critic in the delicacies of the English language ought to have the Bible at his finger's ends Lord Macaulay advised Lady Holland in 1831 Begat shows how true that remains It will be a revelation to all who read it

The Way of the Lord Patrick D. Miller,2007-02 The Way of the Lord contains twenty one of respected biblical scholar Patrick Miller's best essays on Old Testament theology. In this work Miller focuses on the Commandments and the Psalms but also discusses what other parts of the Old Testament have to say to our theology today. In the first section Miller portrays the rich complexities of the Ten Commandments and asserts that aspects of them appear in expanded form throughout Scripture. His second section shifts to the Psalms revealing them to be as much a book of theology as a book of poetry and song pointing to a way of faith and life. The final section expands to consider more wide-ranging topics on theology and anthropology contemplating the character of God and the nature of human beings.

Teaching the Faith, Forming the Faithful Gary A. Parrett, S. Steve Kang, 2013-03-05 With the decline of traditional Sunday school and education programs in recent years many Christians have not learned the fundamental doctrinal content of the faith. In this text Gary Parrett and Steve Kang set forth a thoroughly biblical vision for intentional teaching of the Christian faith that attends to both the content and process of educational and formational ministries.

Discipline in Education Johan Botha, 2021 This book addresses a perennial challenge to the success of the South African education system namely discipline. This volume steers the interrogation of discipline in a new direction reflecting on ways in which recent research can benefit South African schools. This includes the need for alternative discipline that will enhance education. The scholarly contribution lies in its in-depth exploration of the relevance of research findings to South African schools and to the twenty-first century socio-political environment. For the first time scholarly interrogation of the issue of learner discipline in South African schools draws on indigenous knowledge systems. Its post-colonial and decolonial perspectives offer an ethical and moral compass for behaviour that could contribute to the well-being of South African society and other societies similarly afflicted by anti-social behaviour. The book offers a range of perspectives on the debates on discipline and associated issues and should stimulate future discussions on discipline and indiscipline at a time when South Africa and many other societies engage with the effects of social and political transformation. This scholarly book is aimed at academics and researchers. The contributors include philosophers moralists corporativists education law specialists curriculum specialists specialists in education and culture advocates of ubuntu and people using meta syntheses of approaches and practices and religious practices such as a Christian ethical moral approach to parental and school discipline They draw on their insights into postcolonialism the impact of indigenous knowledge theories of agency dysfunctionality and school underperformance The book offers an intriguing depiction of opposing views on discipline
