Special Women The Experience Of Women:

Women's Sexual Experience Martha Kirkpatrick, 2012-12-06 This book like its companion volume Women's Sexual Development is a potpourri of ideas not campaign literature to promote a particular point of view The editor agrees with some of her authors and strongly disagrees with others The facts are few the questions many The intent of both books is to evoke questions delay convictions invite controversy and plead for opening minds The examination and explanation of women's sexual experience has long been the province of men The is and the oughts have been hopelessly confused by the investigators or exhorters biases and limited experience as well as by the use of the male sexual experience as the model for all human sexual experience Women at long last are talking not only to each other in personal journals and letters but also in the more formal worlds of academic and scientific publications The papers in this book come from many sources Some are academic some are experiential journalistic or personal Several emphasize the lack of adequate research and data but address an issue that is just appearing on the surface of contemporary controversy and concern Many topics and sources of information are missing Black Women's Experiences of Criminal Justice Ruth Chigwada-Bailey, 2003 A personal discourse on the multiple disadvantages of people who are black women and from the margins of society Young Bisexual

Womens Experiences in Secondary Schools Mary-Anne McAllum, 2017-09-11 Emerging from a case study in secondary schools this book explores young bisexual women's notions of bisexuality through their own sense of self identification and how they express their personal beliefs McAllum sheds light on the presence and practices of bisexual misrecognition and bi misogyny in school settings and draws out the implications of this bias on bisexual women Incorporating women's own spoken and written anecdotes this book reveals hidden narratives and helps boost awareness about the social and learning needs of young bisexual women Experiences of Single African-American Women Professors Eletra S.

Gilchrist, 2013-03-08 Experiences of Single African American Women Professors With this Ph D I Thee Wed edited by Eletra S Gilchrist explores the unique lived experiences of single African American women professors Gilchrist's contributors are comprised of never before married and doctorate degree holding African American women professors The authors and research participants speak candidly about their experiences exploring a myriad of topics including dating costs and rewards relationship challenges work life balance multiple intersecting identities negative perceptions and identity negotiation This volume is designed by and for an academic audience It addresses the dating and mating complexities of the population under study by combining autoethnographic accounts with empirical research and theoretical concepts As one of the few works to address the intricate interpersonal dynamics surrounding African American women in the professorate from a scholarly perspective Eletra S Gilchrist's Experiences of Single African American Women Professors With this Ph D I Thee Wed seeks to not only dispel myths and stereotypes but serve as an instructional tool for other professor hopefuls National Women's Oral History Susan Hodge Armitage, Patricia Hart, Karen Weathermon, 2002-01-01 Women s Oral History The Frontiers Reader is an essential guide to the practice of gathering and interpreting women s oral accounts of their lives During the 1970s when women s history was just developing the lack of historical information about women s lives was glaring Oral history quickly emerged as a vital and necessary tool for documenting the lives and experiences of women who rarely recorded it for themselves much less for posterity Standard models of practicing oral history however were inadequate to the job of organizing and interpreting women s lives and new models that addressed the distinctiveness of the lives of women in all of their diversity were needed As one of the earliest journals devoted to feminist scholarship in the United States Frontiers A Journal of Women Studies was in the vanguard of the emerging field of women's oral history when it published its first landmark issue on the subject in 1977. Three subsequent issues exploring the evolving field have secured Frontiers' reputation at the forefront of women's oral history. Women's Oral History includes nineteen essays each addressing the particularity of women's lives and experience. The collection provides both how-to interview guides and examples of current research in sections covering basic methodology and rationale, the myriad uses of women's oral history and discoveries and insights gained from oral history applications. The essays raise thought-provoking questions, glean original insights about the lives of women and the practice of history, and call for women to write and record their own histories.

National Women's Health Survey for Trinidad and Tobago Cecile Pemberton, Joel Joseph, 2018-03-06 This report presents the first nationally representative estimates of the prevalence of intimate partner violence (IPV) and non-partner sexual violence (NPSV) against women in Trinidad and Tobago. The data come from the 2017 Trinidad and Tobago Women's Health Survey (WHS), a national quantitative cross-sectional survey of 1,079 women ages 15-64. The report finds that 30 percent of ever-partnered women experienced physical and/or sexual violence by an intimate partner in their lifetime, and 6 percent in the 12 months prior to data collection. Seven percent of all respondents reported having been forced into sexual intercourse by a non-partner in their lifetime, 1 percent in the last 12 months. Significant risk factors associated with IPV identified using Chi-square tests included lower education, female and partner cohabitation without marriage, rural residency, younger age, non-consensual marriage, having been pregnant, having experienced or witnessed violence in childhood, substance abuse by the partner, and the partner being unemployed and having been in prior relationships. The report documents the negative consequences of IPV for women and their children, as well as the most common responses and coping mechanisms. One in three women who experienced IPV remained quiet about their experience, and most survivors did not seek or receive assistance for their situation. Women most often sought help from their personal contacts, mostly their mothers, rather than police, social services, or other entities adequately resourced to address IPV. Several factors precluded women from accessing help; these included fear, shame, and the normalcy associated with violence. Based on these findings, recommendations for policy and further research are presented.

Feminist Criticism and Social Change (RLE Feminist Theory) Deborah Rosenfelt, Judith Newton, 2013-05-20 This lively and controversial collection of essays sets out to theorize and practice a materialist feminist criticism of literature and culture. Such a criticism is based on the view that the material conditions in which men and women live are central to an understanding of culture and society. It emphasises the relation of gender to other categories of analysis, such as class and race, and considers the connection between ideology and cultural practice and the ways in which all relations of power change with changing social and economic conditions. By presenting a wide range of work by major feminist scholars, this anthology in effect defines as well as illustrates the materialist feminist tendency in current literary criticism. The essays in the first part of the book examine race ideology and the literary canon and explore the ways in which other critical discourse such as those of deconstruction and French feminism might be useful to a feminist and materialist criticism. The second part of the book contains examples of such criticism in practice with studies of individual works, writers and ideas. An introduction by the editors situates the collected essays in relation both to one another and to a shared materialist feminist project. Feminist Criticism and Social Change demonstrates the important contribution of materialist feminist criticism to our understanding of literature and society and fulfils a crucial need among those concerned with gender and its relation to criticism. Exile and Nomadism in French and Hispanic Women's Writing Kate Averis, 2017-07-05. Women in exile disrupt assumptions about exile, belonging, home and identity. For many women, exile represents less a place of belonging and more a point of departure and exile becomes a creative site of becoming rather than an unsettling state of errancy. Exile may be a propitious circumstance for women to renegotiate identities far from the strictures of home, appropriating a new freedom in mobility. Through a feminist politics of place, displacement and subjectivity, this comparative study analyses the novels of key contemporary Francophone and Latin American writers: Nancy Huston, Linda Le Malika Mokeddem, Cristina Peri Rossi, Laura Restrepo and Cristina Siscar, to identify a new nomadic subjectivity in the lives and works of transnational women today. Women's Health Lucy Bowyer, Martha Finn, Sandra Carr, 2005. Written to integrally link with the Women's Health Collaborative Core Curriculum being implemented in medical schools across Australia and New Zealand. Contributors include obstetricians, gynaecologists, nurses and major teaching hospitals across Australia and New Zealand. Women in International Migration Elsa Chaney, 1980. Research paper on issues in development planning with particular reference to women in international migration, examines historical perspectives, current trends and forecast, typology of migrant women etc. and reviews response by development centres and UN and specialized agencies to their specific needs. ILO mentioned. Bibliography pp 45 to 50.

Social Work, Special Issue on Women, 1976. Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women Cheri Kramarae, Dale Spender, 2004-04-16. For a full list of entries and contributors, sample entries and more, visit the Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women website. Featuring comprehensive global coverage of women's issues and concerns from violence and sexuality to feminist theory, the Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women brings the field into the new millennium. In over 900 signed A-Z entries from US and Europe, Asia, the Americas, Oceania and the Middle East, the women who pioneered the field from its inception collaborate with the new scholars who are shaping the future of women's studies to create the new standard work for anyone who needs information on women-related subjects. Oral History David K. Dunaway, Willa K. Baum, 1996-09-18. Oral History: An Interdisciplinary Anthology is a collection of classic articles by some of the best-known proponents of oral history, demonstrating the basics of oral history while also acting as a guidebook for how to use it in research. Added to this new edition is insight into how oral history is practiced on an international scale, making this book an indispensable resource for scholars of history and social sciences as well as those interested in oral history on the avocational level This volume is a reprint of the 1984 edition with the added bonus of a new introduction by David Dunaway and a new section on how oral history is practiced on an international scale Selections from the original volume trace the origins of oral history in the United States provide insights on methodology and interpretation and review the various approaches to oral history used by folklorists historians anthropologists and librarians among others Family and ethnic historians will find chapters addressing the applications of oral history in those fields
