Medieval Wall Paintings in English & Welsh Churches Roger Rosewell, 2008 Surveying the images and iconography that made the medieval church a riot of colour this book brings together many of the best surviving examples of medieval church wall paintings It uses new technologies to allow us to visualise these works as the artists first intended Rosewell's text accompanies the images Medieval Wall Paintings Roger Rosewell, 2014-02-10 The medieval wall paintings that remain in English churches are for the most part shadows of their former selves the rare fragments of this beautiful art to have survived not only the Reformation but also successive waves of iconoclastic zeal and unsympathetic restoration The whitewashed walls of most parish churches belie the riot of colour and decoration that once adorned them but the remnants of paintings tucked into corners or rescued from later layers of paint help us to understand the role of art in medieval religion Roger Rosewell here offers a guide to the role played by medieval wall paintings as religious didactic and commemorative works of art telling the stories of those who created them and those who used them on a daily basis He also compares and contrasts religious and domestic wall paintings using beautiful colour photography throughout Forces of the Hanseatic League David Nicolle, 2014-04-20 The Hanseatic League was a commercial and defensive federation of merchant guilds based in harbour towns along the North Sea and Baltic coasts of what are now Germany and her neighbours which eventually dominated maritime trade in Northern Europe and spread its influence much further afield The League was formed to protect the economic and political interests of member cities throughout a vast and complex trading network The League continued to operate well into the 17th century but its golden age was between c 1200 and c 1500 thereafter it failed to take full advantage of the wave of maritime exploration to the west south and east of Europe During its 300 years of dominance the League's large ships called cogs were at the forefront of maritime technology were early users of cannon and were manned by strong fighting crews to defend them from pirates in both open sea and river warfare The home cities raised their own armies for mutual defence and their riches both allowed them and required them to invest in fortifications and gunpowder weapons since as very attractive targets they were subjected to sieges at various times Were We Ever Protestants? Sivert Angel, Hallgeir Elstad, Eivor Andersen Oftestad, 2019-09-23 This anthology discusses different aspects of Protestantism past and present Professor Tarald Rasmussen has written both on medieval and modern theologians but his primary interest has remained the reformation and 16th century church history In stead of a traditional Festschrift honouring the different fields of research he has contributed to this will be a focused anthology treating a specific theme related to Rasmussen s research profile One of Professor Rasmussen s most recent publications a little popularized book in Norwegian titled What is Protestantism reveals a central aspect research interest namely the Weberian interest for Protestantism s cultural significance Despite difficulties he finds the concept useful as a Weberian Idealtypus enabling research on a phenomenon combining theological historical and sociological dimensions Thus he employs the Protestantism as an integrative concept to trace the makeup of today s secular societies This profiled approach is a point of departure for this anthology discussing important aspects of historiography in reformation history Continuity and breaks surrounding the reformation contemporary significance of reformation history research traces of the reformation in today s society The book relates to current discussions on Protestantism and is relevant to everyone who want to keep up to date with the latest research in the field

Cheetham, 2005 Francis Cheetham's classic survey of English medieval alabasters includes a richly illustrated catalogue of the Victoria and Albert Museum's unparalleled collection English alabasters represent a unique contribution to medieval art Less sophisticated perhaps than other contemporary forms of religious art they were a neglected area of study until this volume was first published in 1984 Stories from the New Testament and The Golden Legend were the most favoured subjects and the numerous examples that survive in churches and museums throughout Europe attest to their wide and enduring appeal Francis Cheetham examines here all aspects of their production and demonstrates how the panels and altarpieces can aid our understanding of life and devotional practice in medieval times At the heart of this fascinating study is a richly illustrated catalogue of the 260 examples in the collection of London's Victoria and Albert Museum a collection so comprehensive that it would be possible to write a survey of the subject almost without recourse to pieces elsewhere as Sir Roy Strong notes in his Foreword Their division into subject categories is an invaluable aid to identification and classification The late Francis Cheetham was an acknowledged expert on medieval English alabasters and this reissue of his classic work will be welcomed by historians art historians collectors and dealers alike taking its place alongside his Alabaster Images of Medieval England which was published by the Boydell Press in 2003
