Staging America Cornerstone Communit:

Staging America Sonja Kuftinec, 2003 This captivating study maps a history and theory of community based theater in the United States through the Cornerstone Theater Company Detailing how the performance making process contributes to an ongoing negotiation of American identity Sonja Kuftinec investigates community based theater to trace the historical affiliations of the form and critically examines how community based theater both enables community and challenges the very notion of community as a stable site The process of making and unmaking community is vividly illuminated in the work of the Cornerstone Theater Company a Los Angeles based ensemble founded in 1986 From 1986 to 1991 Cornerstone toured nationwide working mainly with rural towns to create adaptations of classical texts A Wild West musical Hamlet was performed with residents of Marmarth North Dakota population 190 and The House on Walker River an adaptation of the Oresteia trilogy was developed with a Native American reservation in Nevada Since 1991 Cornerstone has performed with urban communities developing original shows and adaptations of Western and non Western texts incorporating local histories and community players These performances rearticulate distinctions among various urban group and between amateur and professional theater While Cornerstone s contemporary work can be contextualized within a historical tradition of grassroots performance it also complicates this tradition suggesting that identity may be more dynamic than rooted By using Cornerstone as a case study Kuftinec s analysis of community based theater s impact upon rural urban and professional sites across the United States proposes that community and America are vital terms of negotiation rather than fixed entities

A Spectacle of Suffering Barbara Wallace Grossman, 2009-02-13 Once called America's greatest actress renowned for the passion and power of her performances Clara Morris 1847 1925 has been largely forgotten A Spectacle of Suffering Clara Morris on the American Stage is the first full length study of the actress's importance as a feminist in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Detailing her daunting health problems and the changing tastes in entertainment that led to her retirement from the stage Barbara Wallace Grossman explores Morris's dramatic reinvention as an author. During a second robust career she published hundreds of newspaper and magazine articles and nine books, six works of fiction and three memoirs. Grossman draws on the fifty-four volume diary that Morris kept from 1868 until 1924 as well as on the manuscript fragments and notes of journalist George T. MacAdam, who died in 1929 before completing the actress's biography. Grossman provides a dramatic account of Morris's life and work from her troubled early years through an unhappy marriage, morphine addiction and invalidism to the challenges of touring, the decline of her artistic reputation and the demands of the writing career she pursued so tenaciously. A Spectacle of Suffering reveals how Morris, even after experiencing blindness and the loss of her home, livelihood and family, did not succumb to despair and found comfort in the small pleasures of her circumscribed life. A Spectacle of Suffering recovers an important figure in American theatre and ensures that Morris will be remembered not simply as an actress but as a respected writer and beloved public figure admired for her courage in dealing with adversity. The book, which is enhanced by twenty-four illustrations, is the only published biography of Clara Morris. It is as much a tribute to the power of the human spirit as it is an effective means of exploring American theatre and society in the Gilded Age.

Women in Turmoil Robert A. Schanke, 2008-08-18. In this first publication of six plays by the flamboyantly uninhibited author, poet and playwright Mercedes de Acosta (1893-1968), theater historian Robert A. Schanke rescues these lost theatrical writings from the dusty margins of obscurity. Often autobiographical, always rife with gender struggle and still decidedly stageworthy, Women in Turmoil: Six Plays by Mercedes de Acosta constitutes a significant find for the canon of gay and lesbian drama. In her 1960 autobiography Here Lies the Heart, de Acosta notes that as she was contemplating marriage to a man in 1920, she was in a strange turmoil about world affairs, my own writing, suffrage, sex and my inner spiritual development. The voice in these plays is that of a lesbian in turmoil, marginalized and ignored. Her same-sex desires and struggles for acceptance fueled her writings, and nowhere is that more evident than in the plays contained herein. The women characters struggle with unfulfilling marriages, divorce, unrequited sexual desire, suppressed identity and a longing for recognition. Of the six plays, only the first two were ever produced: Jehanne d'Arc (1922) premiered in Paris with de Acosta's lover at the time, Eva Le Gallienne, starring and Norman Bel Geddes designing the set and lights. In 1934, de Acosta adapted it into a screenplay for Greta Garbo, then her lover, but it was never filmed. Portraying rampant anti-Semitism in a small New England town, Jacob Slovak (1923) was performed both on Broadway and in London with the London production starring John Gielgud and Ralph Richardson. The Mother of Christ (1924) is a long one-act play written for the internationally known actress Eleonora Duse. After Duse's death, several other actresses, including Eva Bartok, Jeanne Eagels and Lillian Gish, explored productions of the play. Igor Stravinsky wrote a score, Norman Bel Geddes designed a set and Gladys Calthrop designed costumes. However, the play was never produced. Her most autobiographical play, World Without End (1925), and her most sensational play, The Dark Light (1926), both unfold through plots of sibling rivalry, incest and suicide. With overtones of Ibsen

Illusion 1928 continues the themes of de Acosta's previous plays with her rough and seedy cast of characters but here the playwright's drama grows to incorporate a yearning for belonging as well as strong elements of class conflict. What notoriety remains associated with de Acosta has less to do with her writing than with her infamous romances with the likes of Greta Garbo, Marlene Dietrich, Isadora Duncan, Alla Nazimova, Eva Le Gallienne, Tamara Karsavina, Pola Negri, and Ona Munson. Through this collection of six powerfully poignant dramas, editor Robert A. Schanke strives to correct myths about Mercedes de Acosta and to restore both her name and her literary achievements to their proper place in history. Robert A. Schanke has authored the original biography That Furious Lesbian: The Story of Mercedes de Acosta, also available from Southern Illinois University Press. Dramaturgical notes 1. Curtain raiser: The angels' Collaborations. A question of casting. Dress rehearsal. Richard Barr. David A. Crespy, 2013-03-28. In Richard Barr: The Playwright's Producer, author David A. Crespy investigates the career of one of the theatre's most vivid luminaries from his work on the film and radio productions of Orson Welles to his triumphant and final production of Stephen Sondheim's Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street. Explored in detail along the way are the producer's relationship with playwright Edward Albee whose major plays such as A Zoo Story and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Barr was the first to produce and his innovative productions of controversial works by playwrights like Samuel Beckett, Terrence McNally, and Sam Shepard. Crespy draws on Barr's own writings on the theatre, his personal papers, and more than sixty interviews with theatre professionals to offer insight into a man whose legacy to producers and playwrights resounds in the theatre world. Also included in the volume are a foreword and an afterword by Edward Albee, a three-time Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and one of Barr's closest associates. Remapping Performance Jan Cohen-Cruz, 2015-07-13

Completing a trilogy of works by Jan Cohen-Cruz, Remapping Performance focuses on the work of artists and experts who collaborate across fields to address social issues. The book explores work of a range of artists who employ artistic training, methodologies, and mind sets in their work with experts from other sectors such as medicine and healthcare and from other disciplines to draw an expanded map of performance platforms including university-community partnerships, neighbourhood bases, and cultural diplomacy. Case studies include ArtSpot Productions' Mondo Bizarro's Cry You One about climate change in southern Louisiana incorporating theatrics and organizing; Michael Rohd's Sojourn Theatre's social and civic practices; Anne Basting's University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee-based integration of performance and creative aging; and the collaborative cultural diplomacy experiment smARTpower. Short companion pieces add expertise from Helen Nicholson, Todd London, Julie Thompson Klein, Nancy Cantor, Maria Rosario Jackson, and Penny Von Eschen. Jan Cohen-Cruz ends with suggestions for fully integrating performance in cross-sector initiatives. Unfriendly Witnesses Milly S. Barranger, 2008-06-10 Unfriendly Witnesses: Gender, Theater, and Film in the McCarthy Era examines the experiences of seven prominent women of stage and screen whose lives and careers were damaged by the McCarthy era witch hunts for Communists and Communist sympathizers in the entertainment industry: Judy Holliday, Anne Revere, Lillian Hellman, Dorothy Parker, Margaret Webster, Mady Christians, and Kim Hunter. The effects on women of the anti-Communist crusades that swept the nation between 1947 and 1962 have been largely overlooked by cultural critics and historians who have instead focused their attention on the men of the period. Author Milly S. Barranger looks at the gender issues inherent in the investigations and at the destructive impact the investigations had on the lives and careers of these seven women and on American film and theater and culture in general. Issues of gender and politics surface in the women's testimony before the committees labeled unfriendly because the women refused to name names. Unfriendly Witnesses redresses the absence of women's histories during this era of modern political history and identifies the enduring strains of McCarthyism in postmillennial America. Barranger recreates the congressional and state hearings that addressed the alleged Communist influence in the entertainment industry and examines in detail the cases of these seven women, including the appearance of actress Judy Holliday before the committee of Senator Pat McCarran who aimed to limit the immigration of Eastern Europeans, actress Anne Revere, and playwright Lillian Hellman appearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee, sought the protections of the Fifth Amendment with different outcomes; of writer Dorothy Parker who testified before a New York state legislative committee investigating contributions to front groups; and of director Margaret Webster before Senator Joseph McCarthy's subcommittee whose aim was the indictment of Senator J. William Fulbright and the U.S. State Department. None escaped subsequent blacklisting, denial of employment, and notations in FBI files that they were threats to national security. Unfriendly Witnesses is enhanced by nine illustrations and extensive excerpts from Red Channels: The Report of Communist Influence in Radio and Television, originally published in 1950 at the height of the Red Scare and which listed 151 allegedly subversive writers, directors, and performers. Barranger includes the complete entries from Red Channels for the seven women she discusses, which include the subversive affiliations that prompted the women's interrogation by the government.
