St. Croix Border Country Harry Swain, Cotton Mather, 1968 Valued Environments John R. Gold, Jacquelin Burgess, 2019-03-21 First published in 1982 People care about places Inhabitants demand more participation in the changes proposed for their local environments activists urge greater protection of countryside and natural environments decision makers feel threatened by the antagonism aroused by their powers and plans The essays in this book have been drawn together to discover what lies behind these expressions of concern and discontent Valued environments are places for which people feel commitment and affection places which support a sense of personal identity and well being The authors explore the character and constituents of valued environments asking how our experiences of environments may be enhanced What is the impact of environmental change How can the future be accommodated in both rural and urban environments without destroying their essential qualities The reader will find substantive evidence from case studies of environments valued by inhabitants and outsiders which answer these questions Examples are taken from wilderness areas fenland market towns and large cities commercial streets and residential neighbourhoods environments of the past and those imagined in science fiction The essays are united in their focus on the meaning of places and landscapes The subtle but highly significant role of valued environments is examined thoroughly in the book It will be of interest to all who care deeply about their surroundings reflecting perhaps some of their own experiences as well as conveying information about the environmental experiences of others Students of geography environmental planning and conservation should also find the book directly relevant to their interests in man environment relationships Wpa Guide to Minnesota The Federal Writers' Project, 2008-10-14

culture and environment but also a timely reminder that amidst the very real consequences of climate change the inhabitants of the Maritime Far Northeast can show us grounded and sustainable ways of living

The Parks Belong to the People Joe Weber, Selima Sultana, 2024-04 In examining the 424 units of the U S national park system geographers Joe Weber and Selima Sultana focus attention on the historical geography of the system as well as its present distribution covering the diversity of places under the control of the National Park Service NPS This includes the famous national parks such as the Grand Canyon Yellowstone and Yosemite and the lesser known national monuments memorials lakeshores seashores rivers recreation areas preserves reserves parkways historic sites historic parks and a range of battlefields as well as more than twenty additional sites not fitting into any of these categories such as the White House The geographic view of The Parks Belong to the People sets it apart from others that have taken a solely historical approach Where parks are located what they are near where their visitors come from and how land use and activities are organized within parks are some of the fundamental issues discussed

The majority of units in the NPS are devoted to recreation areas or historic sites such as battlefields archaeological sites or sites devoted to a specific person and this is reflected in the authors approach What we think of as a national park has changed over the years and will continue to change Weber and Sultana emphasize changing social and political environments in which NPS units were created and the roles they serve such as protecting scenery providing wildlife habitats preserving history and serving as scientific laboratories and places for outdoor recreation The authors also focus on parks as public facilities and sites of economic activities National parks were created by people for people to enjoy at great cost and with great benefit They cannot be understood without taking this human context into account Compendium of History and Biography of Minneapolis and Hennepin County, Minnesota Return Ira Holcombe, William H.
