Labor Market Policies in Canada and Latin America: Challenges of the New Millennium R. Albert Berry, 2013-03-14 Canada and the countries of Latin America are in the midst of major changes and choices in the area of labor markets and related social policy These decisions are likely to have profound consequences for the quality of life of workers throughout the hemisphere Labor Market Policies in Canada and Latin America Challenges of the New Millennium reviews the evidence of Canada and Latin America on three major labor policy instruments unemployment insurance minimum wages and training and on the effects of the payroll taxes which are the main means of funding the unemployment insurance system and other components of social expenditure This is the first study attempting an in depth comparison of these labor policy instruments between Canada and Latin America The useful juxtaposition of Canadian and Latin American experiences comes at a time when the trend in Canada is to back away from the perhaps overly generous or ineffectively administered elements of the labor legislation social security net and when Latin American countries have undertaken significant reforms of their past systems but require further changes to move toward the sorts of legislation and support systems that characterize developed countries The experiences of Canada and Latin America are mutually relevant since all are small economies forced to adjust to events at the world or hemispheric level and most are inclined to approach policy in an intermediate fashion which falls between the more market oriented American and the more interventionist European models Together with its comparative aspect this volume attempts a more balanced and in depth assessment in each of the policy areas than has hitherto been available The gradually increasing base of available empirical data on the period after the reforms has been used in the studies which provide thorough syntheses of the available research for Canada and Latin America

Chand, Mr. Albert Jaeger, 1996-12-30 This paper discusses a study analyzing aging populations and public pension schemes An aging society is characterized by a growing proportion of the retired to the active working population The study examines the pension related aging problem primarily from a fiscal perspective It analyzes how prospective demographic developments that affect the proportion of the pensionable elderly affect pension outlays It confirms that very serious fiscal stresses are in prospect for most industrial economies Addressing such problems satisfactorily will require major actions early given the long lead times involved in reforming a pension fund's financial position Which Global Village? Valeria Lerda, 2002-01-30 The word village has the evocative power of ancient shared social values based on solidarity equality and common expectations for the betterment of life The book's title is borrowed from McLuhan's apt metaphor but questions its underlying assumptions The contributors recast some of the basic elements of the complex phenomenon of the so called globalization Trade laws industrial relations economic and political systems are analyzed in a critical perspective Moreover environment and sustainable development languages rights education mobility and migrations are discussed in view of contemporary changes that societies are undergoing throughout the world The vulnerability of societies caught up in new networks of interdependence due to reduced distances also are put to the fore in the context of the new accelerated circulation of information ideas goods and human beings Provocative reading for scholars interested in a multinational Euro Atlanticist perspective on globalization The international discourse is most recently focused on some negative outgrowths of world economy especially after the Seattle Round December 1999 and its unexpected uprising of protests The researches of the Center for Euro Atlantic Studies University of Genoa in cooperation with scholars from Europe Canada and the United States offer in this collection of essays a multinational contribution which is part of their work in progress on the multifaceted issue of the contemporary global village The book features some optimistic outcomes and some worries about what the new millennium will not achieve despite the common and transnational efforts that is to say a fair re distribution of resources to reach what R W Fogel defines a post modern equality based on values as well as on material wealth In sum the essayists wonder if some of the hidden promises of globalization will develop in a better new century
