Staffordshire Figures:

The Victorian Staffordshire Figure Anthony Oliver, 1972 Staffordshire Figures 1780 to 1840 Volume 4 Myrna Schkolne, 2014 In Volume 4 of this all encompassing multi volume set which catalogues the vast range of enamel painted figures produced mostly in the Staffordshire Potteries between 1780 and 1840 figures portraying family children at play the Temperance Movement classical subjects busts and much more are covered The text discusses distinguishing real works from reproductions and evaluating their quality It includes over 1100 brilliant colour photographs as well as information about the potters and design sources along with a values guide Among the figures are contemporary portrayals of weddings christenings and other family scenes forms emblematic of the seasons elements and continents and a multitude of characters portraying classical subjects Many of these pieces are hauntingly beautiful and have long been hidden from the public eye These impressive portrayals give us rare glimpses of a world that has vanished long ago Staffordshire Figures

1780-1840 Volume 2 Myrna Schkolne, 2014 Part of a multi volume work that catalogs the enormous range of enamel painted figures made predominantly in the Staffordshire Potteries between 1780 and 1840 Volume 2 presents figures portraying equestrians fairground entertainers personalities from literature and the stage biblical characters and a host of people of national and international significance Also shown are sporting pastimes and figures reflecting a patriotic theme It includes over 1000 brilliant color photos of figures Literary figures range from Cleopatra and Doctor Syntax while important persons as varied as Benjamin Franklin and Admiral Lord Nelson are captured in clay The works also include the early pugilists bull and bear baiting and sportsmen and women of those days Many of these figures have long been hidden from the public eye Fashioned in an era before photography they give us rare glimpses of a world that has vanished In many cases they are hauntingly beautiful To hold one is to touch the past The Connoisseur, 1911 Sale Catalogues American Art Association, Anderson Galleries (Firm), 1886 No more giants Jessica Kelly, 2023-01-24 Architecture is more than buildings and architects It also involves photographers writers advertisers and broadcasters as well as the people who finance and live in the buildings Using the career of the critic J M Richards as a lens this book takes a new perspective on modern architecture Richards served as editor of The Architectural Review from 1937 to 1971 during which time he consistently argued that modernism was integrally linked to vernacular architecture not through style but through the principle of being an anonymous expression of a time and public spirit Exploring the continuities in Richards's ideas throughout his career disrupts the existing canon of architectural history which has focused on abrupt changes linked to individual pioneers encouraging us to think again about who is studied in architectural history and how they are researched

Our Homes and Gardens, 1928 The Antiquarian, 1927 The Oxford Handbook of the Georgian Theatre 1737-1832 Julia Swindells, David Francis Taylor, 2014-01-16 The Oxford Handbook of the Georgian Theatre 1737 1832 provides an essential guide to theatre in Britain between the passing of the Stage Licensing Act in 1737 and the Reform Act of 1832 a period of drama long neglected but now receiving significant scholarly attention Written by specialists from a range of disciplines its forty essays both introduce students and scholars to the key texts and contexts of the Georgian theatre and also push the boundaries of the field asking questions that will animate the study of drama in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries for years to come The Handbook gives equal attention to the range of dramatic forms not just tragedy and comedy but the likes of melodrama and pantomime as they developed and overlapped across the period and to the occasions communities and materialities of theatre production It includes sections on historiography the censorship and regulation of drama theatre and the Romantic canon women and the stage and the performance of race and empire In doing so the Handbook shows the centrality of theatre to Georgian culture and politics and paints a picture of a stage defined by generic fluidity and experimentation by networks of performance that spread far beyond London by professional women who played pivotal roles in every aspect of production and by its complex mediation of contemporary attitudes of class race and gender

Modern Christianity and Cultural Aspirations David Bebbington,Timothy Larsen,2003-06-01 Christianity and cultural aspirations are inevitably in tension the combination invites a suspicion that temporal pursuits have slackened a quest for divine approbation Nevertheless as Christians generally believe that worldly success may be a position of influence worth seeking for noble reasons it is truly an area of tension rather than merely temptation This volume explores this lively juxtaposition in the context of modern Britain and America In fifteen original essays a range of well respected scholars examine the cultural aspirations of a broad spectrum of Christians including Baptists Congregationalists Methodists Presbyterians Roman Catholics and Anglicans as they were expressed in arenas as diverse as politics education architecture and sport

Nineteenth-century English Ceramic Art J. F. Blacker,1911 The Subject Index to Periodicals ,1916

Tracing War in British Enlightenment and Romantic Culture Gillian Russell,Neil Ramsey,2016-04-29 This volume argues for the enduring and pervasive significance of war in the formation of British Enlightenment and Romantic culture Showing how war throws into question conventional disciplinary parameters and periodization essays in the collection consider how war shapes culture through its multiple divergent and productive traces I Hope I Don't Intrude David Vincent, 2015-05-14 I Hope I Don't Intrude takes its title from the catch phrase of the eponymous hero of the 1825 play Paul Pry which was an immense success on the London stage and then rapidly in New York and around the English speaking world. It tackles the complex multi faceted subject of privacy in nineteenth century Britain by examining the way in which the tropes language and imagery of the play entered public discourse about privacy in the rest of the century. The volume is not just an account of a play or of late Georgian and Victorian theatre. Rather it is a history of privacy showing how the play resonated through Victorian society and revealed its concerns over personal and state secrecy, celebrity gossip and scandal, postal espionage, virtual privacy, the idea of intimacy and the evolution of public and private spheres. After 1825 the overly inquisitive figure of Paul Pry appeared everywhere in songs, stories and newspapers and on everything from buttons and Staffordshire pottery to pubs, ships and stagecoaches and Paul Prying rapidly entered the language. I Hope I Don't Intrude is an innovative kind of social history using rich archival research to trace this cultural artefact through every aspect of its consumer context and using its meanings to interrogate the largely hidden history of privacy in a period of major transformations in the role of the home, mass communication, particularly the new letter post which delivered private messages through a public service and the state. In vivid and entertaining detail, including many illustrations, David Vincent presents the most thorough account yet attempted of a recreational event in an era which saw a decisive shift in consumer markets. His study casts fresh light on the perennial tensions between curiosity and intrusion that were captured in Paul Pry and his catchphrase. Giving a new account of the communications revolution of the period, it re-evaluates the role of the state and the market in creating a new regime of privacy. And its critique of the concept and practice of surveillance looks forward to twenty first century concerns about the invasion of privacy through new technologies Sales Parke-Bernet Galleries, 1951 English Pottery Bernard Rackham, Herbert Read, 1924
