characters in Korean literature after the late 1910s they did not assert their own modernity or that of the nation by exploring their interiority Yang however shows that no reading of Korean modernity can ignore these figures because the early colonial domestic novel cast them as individuals in terms of their usefulness or relevance to the nation whether model citizens or iconoclasts By including these earlier narratives within modern Korean literary history and positing that they too were engaged in the translation of individuality into Korean Yang's study not only disrupts the canonical account of a non gendered linear progress toward modern Korean selfhood but also expands our understanding of the role played by translation in Korea's construction of modern gender roles
