Robert L. Gallon, 2015-11-03 In a book that reframes the mental health debate Robert L Gallon challenges the widely held notion that mental disorders are medical diseases Drawing on his extensive experience as a psychologist who has worked with thousands of patients he argues that there are no objective indicators of mental disorders and therefore no way of drawing a distinct line between people who have them and people who don't He outlines an alternative to the disease model defined by nine dimensions of dysfunction that encompass the range of human dysfunctions typically classified as mental disorders He explains the origin of these problems not as chemical imbalances and genetic abnormalities but as the complex interaction of biological psychological and social factors called the Biopsychosocial model Gallon explains the history of psychiatry and how it came to develop a medical model that codifies mental disorders in the psychiatric bible the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders DSM now in its fifth edition He demonstrates how in 1950s and 1960s when the miracle psychiatric drugs came on the market it was to the great economic advantage of both pharmaceutical companies and psychiatrists to describe people's problems in the language of medicine His alternative to this disease model suggests descriptive types Reality Misperception Mood Dysfunction Anxiety Cognitive Competence Social Competence Somatoform Dysfunction Substance Dependence Motivation and Impulse Control and Socialization

Psychological Responses to the New Terrorism: A NATO-Russia Dialogue C. Woburn, 2005-11-25 Terrorism is to create a state of terror and fear Therefore it is important to study the psychological factors and to understand and mitigate our response to terrorism It is the creation of states of mind of reducing people's resilience and will to resist and causing such psychological and social pressure that eventually the political aims of a terrorist group will be fulfilled This book is not about the prevention of terrorism but concerned with the consequences of acts of terror and their impact on populations It describes what citizens professionals and governments can do to mitigate the consequences The focus is less on the timeless or universal trauma reactions captured by labels such as post traumatic stress disorder but more on culture and place specific reactions A comparison is made between the responses visible in Russia large scale adversity and the western reaction a cultural shift towards an age of anxiety and risk aversion Also new terrorism chemical biological and nuclear terrorism is discussed but in practice most terrorist attacks remain steadfastly conventional A last topic is communication such as communication between government and its citizens between terrorists themselves between terrorists and citizens and between citizens themselves People talking to each other in the immediate aftermath of terrorist incidents gives much needed support and reassurance More attention needs to be given to assisting these normalising processes and more needs to be done to safeguard such communications in the immediate aftermath of a terrorist attack
