Standing At The Edge Of Madness:

The Edge of Madness Robert A. Liston, 1972 Futile Self defeating Wasteful Disgraceful These are the words writer Robert Liston uses to describe the American prison system as a whole These are also the words used by nearly every official social scientist commission prison administrator in short by every observer of the system But while there is agreement that the prison system in the United States does not work there is no agreement over how to correct it As he examines this explosive problem Liston goes far beyond conventional sources drawing on his own experiences as a reporter and on prisoners accounts of their existence behind bars His treatment of the subject is a thorough one which includes the causes of crime and the problem of law enforcement as well In the mood of urgency pervading the country especially since Attica and San Quentin Liston's rational yet sensitive probing is invaluable Possible solutions and experiments in prison reform all of which Liston covers cannot but help a willing society to cope with the problems of crime and punishment in a new and challenging era Jacket Steeped in the Blood of Racism Nancy K. Bristow, 2020 On May 15 1970 white police opened fire on students in front of a women's dormitory at Jackson State College a historically black institution in Mississippi killing two young people and injuring twelve Frequently linked to the shootings at Kent State University ten days earlier the violence at Jackson State was routinely misunderstood and largely forgotten by all but the local African American community This book provides a full account of these shootings and their aftermath as well as historical amnesia about the incident

Standing on the Edge of Forever Martin Dench, 2025-04-25 In order to be punished there must first be a transgression I am innocent but damned Cursed in the most callous and inhuman way But the blood of the guilty will yet wash over my hands I will have revenge and it will be merciless and unforgiving The mysterious murder of a famous academic in the backstreets of Los Angeles leads to a wild ride through a dark quest that has lasted nearly 4 000 years and which will lead to the attempted fusing of the modern world to Ancient Egypt in 1799BC An enigmatic powerfully beautiful and fantastically rich woman a bookish academic and his feisty friend a brilliant but disturbing particle physicist an ancient usurper and the arrogant god Anubis all combine to tell a story that threatens to change everything we know about the world around us The biggest particle accelerator in the world a pyramid at the heart of LA and a private army speaking Ancient Egyptian There is a world within our world and the time has come for it to step out and take control Reflections on Life Christopher Ejsmond, 2011-06-01 Description Reflections on Life is a collection of poems which describes the life experiences of the author who has lived with the personal legacy of child abuse followed by the descent into mental illness schizophrenia and OCD and alcoholism The poems carry a message of hope by exploring the complex mental landscapes of co morbidity dual diagnosis psychosis childhood the power of ideas emotions thoughts pain loss actions and relationships The poems invite the reader on a journey through a world where the experience of mental distress has carved a creative channel through the darkness and loneliness of illness and points to a way forward The author has experienced mental health problems since early childhood OCD at five schizophrenia since his teens He has experienced stigma and discrimination from family school and society but has learned to forgive along the way through the medium of poetry The author has lived with severe and enduring mental illness suicidal ideation a plethora of psychotic symptoms voices and perceptual aberrations as well as the efforts of a sometimes unhelpful and clumsy mental health system He has learned from the experience of others and how to put his own suffering and distress into a broader social context About the Author The author was born on 22 October 1964 in London and with few exceptions has lived and worked in London all his life He is the younger of two brothers born to Polish migr parents who arrived in the UK in the late nineteen forties after experiencing traumatic childhoods separated from their own parents and witnessing conflict and war in some of the major theatres of the Second World War The author lives in Ealing west London which has a vibrant Polish community and is educated to university level He is currently a postgraduate student at King s College London The author s childhood was spent in a family home with a number of lodgers which by any means was overcrowded There were many people in his life from early on each with different sometimes difficult personalities which did little to fuse the immediate family unit into a secure base from which a child could thrive Soon after starting school the author began to experience cognitive behavioural and emotional problems These went unrecognised for many years during which the author suffered in silence and fell back on his own resourcefulness in developing coping strategies The author has had obsessive compulsive disorder OCD since about the age of five and this had a devastating impact on home life and school At first it was an obsession with numbers and letters of the alphabet There was much confusion and anxiety in the young child s life Soon the obsessions multiplied and mutated into more physical aspects of movement going in and out of doorways walking up and down pathways and stairs opening and closing repeating things aloud which were accompanied by thoughts and feelings of doom On many occasions the stress was so great that the author s young mind would switch off and become empty of thought and fixed in a void but with the recognition that things had to be put right sorted out and put back in place Chris was sexually abused twice during childhood once at age seven and again at age twelve This added to his distress and inability to make adjustments and build secure friendships and relationships as he grew into adulthood He was an average student and managed to hide some of the more distressing aspects of his illness However by his early teens the author s OCD deteriorated and some symptoms which in retrospect were psychotic began to impinge on his consciousness This is what Chris calls thought swapping the very real feeling that thoughts were being extracted inserted or swapped with those of other people and this has remained with him into adulthood The complexity of combined thoughts feelings and images would build one on top of the

The Edge of Every Day Marin Sardy,2020-04-28 Against the starkly beautiful backdrop of Anchorage Alaska where she grew up Marin Sardy weaves an extraordinarily affecting fiercely intelligent account of the shapeless thief the schizophrenia that kept her mother immersed in a world of private delusion and later also manifested in her brother ultimately claiming his life Composed of exquisite self contained chapters that take us through three generations of this adventurous artistic and often haunted family The Edge of Every Day draws in topics from neuroscience and evolution to the mythology and art rock to shape its brilliant inquiry into how the mind works In the process Sardy casts new light on the treatment of the mentally ill in our society Through it all runs her blazing compassion and relentless curiosity as her meditations takes us to the very edge of love and loss and signal the arrival of an important new literary voice

What does it mean to claim two decades into the twenty first century that citizenship is on the edge The questions that animate this volume focus attention on the relationships between liberal conceptions of citizenship and democracy on one hand and sex race and gender on the other Who counts as a citizen in today s world and what are the mechanisms through which the rights benefits and protections of liberal citizenship are differentially bestowed upon diverse groups What are the relationships between global economic processes and political and legal empowerment What forms of violence emerge in order to defend and define these rights benefits and protections and how do these forms of violence reflect long histories How might we recognize and account for the various avenues through which people attempt to make themselves as political subjects Citizenship on the Edge approaches these questions from multiple disciplines including Africana Studies anthropology disability studies film studies gender studies history law political science and sociology Contributors explore the ways in which compounding social inequalities redound to the conditions and expressions of citizenship in the U S and throughout the world They give a sense of the breathtaking range of the ways that citizenship is controlled repressed undercut and denied at the same time as they outline people s attempts to claim citizenship in ways that are meaningful to them From university speech policies to labor and immigration policies to a rethinking of the security theatre to women s empowerment in the family and economy and a rethinking of marriage and the family we see slivers of possibility for a more inclusive and less hostile world in which citizenship is no longer so in doubt so on the edge for so many As a whole the volume argues that citizenship cannot be conceptualized as a transcendent good but must instead always be contextualized within specific places and times and in relation to dynamic struggle Contributors Erez Aloni Ange Marie Hancock Alfaro Nancy J Hirschmann Samantha Majic Valentine M Moghadam Michael Rembis Tracy Robinson Ellen Samuels Kimberly Theidon Deborah A Thomas Edge of the Map Johanna Garton, 2020-04-01 Edge of the Map is equal parts inspiring dramatic and heartbreaking One of America s greatest high altitude mountaineers Christine Boskoff was at the top of her career when she and her partner died in an avalanche in 2006 Charismatic principled and humble Boskoff was also a deeply loved role model to her climbing partners and the Sherpa community Edge of the Map traces the sharp twists and turns in mad She came to a halt only a few meters from them in the shadow of the veranda shade She could see their silhouette one tall another a little shorter standing dangerously close to the edge of the precipice Mateo had his fingers on Ilario s collar as he continued shouting at him I offered you to be a part of it you refused You interfered in my business turned my own staff against me You needed to be stopped Mateo Ilario s stern voice was measured I warned you again and again Papa warned you But you never listened So you sent her to spy on me Mateo s laugh was full of scorn this time You thought I d never find out eh Tanya s heart stilled They had to be talking about her You knew Ilario s asked quietly You bet I knew I saw you two I saw you Silence except the muted thump of the stereo from the party Tanya waited with bated breath Where is she Mateo Ilario s tone didn t change it was still soft still measured Where is she really Mateo didn t laugh this time Gone For a few moments nothing happened Then suddenly a growl erupted from Ilario as he clutched Mateo s shirtfront and bodily lifted him off the ground Dov Tanya He roared at his sibling Insane as Matteo was he didn t even try to struggle against Ilario s hold It hurts Doesn t it Rio It hurts to know you ll never see her again Ilario dropped him A single whispery No was all that came out of him Her senses returned With a sharp cry she rushed forward all her concentration on her lover the love of her life Rio Even as she stretched out her hand towards the man who was her everything Mateo s fingers curled around the trigger The single shot rent the still night air yet the music didn t stop No one heard it no one witnessed what unfolded right at the edge of that cliff
