Brown vs. the Board of Education

In 1954, the Supreme Court declared the practice of "separate but equal" schools unconstitutional. This decision led to the desegregation of public schools and the end of the "separate but equal" doctrine. This decision was a landmark moment in American history, as it led to the end of legal segregation in public schools.

Brown vs. the Board of Education

Although school desegregation has gone through many steps, the Supreme Court's decision in Brown vs. the Board of Education was a landmark moment in American history. This decision was a landmark moment in American history, as it led to the end of legal segregation in public schools.
