Mission Carlos F. Cardoza-Orlandi, 2002-06-01 Mission has become for many North American Christians an ambiguous and often uncomfortable term To many it brings to mind a past in which western culture was identified with the gospel in missionary practice and programs Distressed with this history and uncertain about how to overcome it many prefer to ignore the New Testament mandate that the church must be in mission if it is to be the church Others swing the other way declaring that everything the church does is mission depriving the idea of mission of its power to define those specific actions of God which proclaim the gospel and build God's kingdom The church exists by missions just as fire exists by burning With these words of Emil Brunner the author reminds us that to be the church is to be in mission After describing the various captivities of mission which plague North American Christianity the author argues for a robust and engaged practice of mission beginning in congregations and extending to the broader community

Making the World Global Isaac A. Kamola, 2019-06-07 Following World War II the American government and philanthropic foundations fundamentally remade American universities into sites for producing knowledge about the world as a collection of distinct nation states As neoliberal reforms took hold in the 1980s visions of the world made popular within area studies and international studies found themselves challenged by ideas and educational policies that originated in business schools and international financial institutions Academics within these institutions reimagined the world instead as a single global market and higher education as a commodity to be bought and sold By the 1990s American universities embraced this language of globalization and globalization eventually became the organizing logic of higher education In Making the World Global Isaac A Kamola examines how the relationships among universities the American state philanthropic organizations and international financial institutions created the conditions that made it possible to imagine the world as global Examining the Center for International Studies Harvard Business School the World Bank the Social Science Research Council and NYU Kamola demonstrates that how we imagine the world is always symptomatic of the material relations within which knowledge is produced Converting Witness David W. Congdon, John G. Flett, 2019-06-05 Building on the work and legacy of Darrell L. Guder Converting Witness: The Future of Christian Mission in the New Millennium explores key questions and new possibilities in missiology in light of the world Christian context. The conversation around missional theology and the missional church has examined the gap between theology and mission with the intent of fostering renewal within North American Christianity. But this can only fully occur in relation to the reality of world Christianities and the framing significance of global cultural diversity. Many of the classic categories and methods such as church planting, catholicity, and even the term world Christianity itself are in need of fresh examination and thoughtful analysis. The contributors to this volume address a range of important missiological topics including globalization, interfaith dialogue, integral mission, intercultural hermeneutics, and church practices.

Multiplying Leaders in Intercultural Contexts Evelyn Hibbert, Richard Hibbert, 2023-01-31 Develop Leaders in Culturally Relevant Ways. Often church planters, disciplers, and pastors struggle to identify grassroots leaders and develop them in their context. As leaders who want to develop other leaders, our task is to come alongside these leaders and learn and grow together with them. Multiplying Leaders in Intercultural Contexts focuses on how to develop grassroots Christian leaders across cultures. These often unrecognized leaders mostly lead small groups at the growing edges of the church. They are ordinary people who faithfully share Christ amid the demands of daily life. Another focus of the book is shaping the character of developers as they humbly walk beside leaders in the leaders' community. Using the four C's of Christian leadership: Community, Character, Clarity, and Care, the authors weave together research, experience, and practical application to show how these characteristics are expressed across different cultures. The book then discusses five principles illustrated in common settings for an intentional process that develops leaders and their communities collectively. Take the next step now in developing yourself and others in the task of leading Jesus's church wherever that might be.
