Irvine, 2007-11-30 Instructors at all levels are being encouraged to teach writing in their courses even in subjects other than English Because the novel reflects a broad set of human experiences and history it is the ideal vehicle for learning about a wide range of issues This book helps educators learn how to incorporate novels in courses in English the humanities social and behavioral sciences and professional studies The chapters focus on using the novel to explore ethical concerns multiculturalism history social theory psychology social work and education The book looks at major canonical works as well as graphic novels and popular literature Language arts are at the forefront of education these days Instructors at all levels are being encouraged to teach writing in their courses even if those courses cover subjects other than English Literature instructors have long used fiction to teach composition But because the novel reflects a broad range of human experiences and historical events it is the ideal medium for learning about contemporary social issues This book helps educators learn how to use the novel in courses in English the humanities social and behavioral sciences and professional studies The book is divided into broad sections on general education classes multiculturalism literature classes humanities courses classes in social behavioral and political sciences and professional studies such as social work and teacher training Each section includes chapters written by gifted teachers and provides a wealth of theoretical and practical information While the book examines major canonical works such as Hard Times Billy Budd and Invisible Man it also looks at graphic novels science fiction and popular contemporary works such as Finishing School and Jarhead Chapters reflect the personal successes of their authors and cite works for further reading

The Role of the Literary Canon in the Teaching of Literature Robert Aston, 2020-05-12 This book investigates the role of the idea of the literary canon in the teaching of literature especially in colleges and secondary schools in the United States Before the term canon was widely used in literary studies which occurred in the second half of 20th century when the canon was first seriously viewed as politically and culturally problematic the idea that some literary texts were more worthy of being studied than others existed since the beginning of the discipline of the teaching of literature in the 1800s The concept of the canon however extends as far back as to Ancient Greece and its meaning has evolved over time Thus this book charts the changing meaning of the idea of the literary canon examining its influence specifically in the teaching of literature from the beginning of the field to the 21st century To explain how the literary canon and the teaching of literature have changed over time and continue to change this book constructs a theory of canon formation based on the ideas of Michel Foucault and the assemblage theory of Manuel DeLanda illustrating that the literary canon while frequently contested is integral to the teaching of literature yet changes as the teaching of literature changes Teaching Modernist Women's Writing in English Janine Utell, 2021-04-25 Offers pedagogical techniques for teaching anglophone modernist writing by Virginia Woolf Gertrude Stein Dorothy Richardson Jean Rhys Nella Larsen and others Gives syllabus suggestions for undergraduate and graduate courses in literature and writing Covers topics such as feminism gender identity canon formation politics activism and war Suggests many digital humanities approaches
