, 1989 Abstract This report prepared for the Carnegie Council on Adolescent Development examines programs developed to teach decision making to adolescents The authors begin with an introduction to the decision making process and principles behind training for decision making Included are normative and descriptive principles Next the authors review specific programs based on curriculum manipulations behavioral measures and methodological issues Curricula on decision making general thinking skills life skills and social skills are evaluated The Development of Judgment and Decision Making in Children and Adolescents Janis E. Jacobs, Paul A. Klaczynski, 2006-04-21 In recent years newspaper articles television specials and other media events have focused on the numerous hard decisions faced by today's youth often pointing to teen pregnancy drug use and delinquency as evidence of faulty judgment Over the past 10 years many groups including parents educators policymakers and researchers have become concerned about the decision making abilities of children and adolescents asking why they make risky choices how they can be taught to be better decision makers and what types of age related changes occur in decision making This book serves as a starting point for those interested in considering new ways of thinking about the development of these issues The purpose is to bring together the voices of several authors who are conducting cutting edge research and developing new theoretical perspectives related to the development of judgment and decision making The Development of Judgment and Decision Making in Children and Adolescents is divided into three parts Part I presents three distinctive developmental models that offer different explanations of what develops and the relative importance of different cognitive components and experiential components that may be important for developing judgment and decision making skills Part II emphasizes the emotional cultural and social aspects of decision making three topics that have been influential in the adult literature on judgment and decision making but are just beginning to be explored in the developmental area Part III provides three examples of research that applies developmental and decision making models to practical research questions This book is intended for the professional market or for graduate courses on decision making or cognitive or social development Adolescent Decision Making National Research Council and Institute of Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, 1999-05-14 Interest in the role that decision making plays in adolescents involvement in high risk behaviors led the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Planning and Evaluation of the U S Department of Health and Human Services to request the Board on Children Youth and Families to convene a workshop on adolescent decision making The Board on Children Youth and Families is a joint activity of the National Research Council NRC and the Institute of Medicine A workshop was held on January 6 7 1998 to examine what is known about adolescents decision making skills and the implications of that knowledge for programs to further their healthy development Decision-making Skills for Middle School Students Sherrel Bergmann, Gerald J. Rudman, 1985-01-01 Early adolescence is a time when students require adult assistance to become accurate and effective decision makers and problem solvers Because of the fragmented nature of society the family structure and the schooling process schools need to establish a nonthreatening environment in which students can discuss the issues related to growing up A decision making course in the middle school can become that program Results of the first six years of the decision making course at Elm Place Middle School in Highland Park Illinois are described illustrating a definite positive response on the part of all students The logistics for designing and implementing such a program in the middle school are discussed Teaching strategies projects and activities are outlined Sample activities are appended along with sample communications to parents and students JD Judgment and Decision Making as a Skill Mandeep K.
