Small Business Entrepreneurs In Asia And Europe Towards A Comparative Perspective:

Small Business Entrepreneurs in Asia and Europe Mario Rutten, Carol Upadhy, 1997-09-20 This volume draws attention to the important role in the capitalist transformation of the still largely agrarian economies of Asia bringing together in depth sociological studies on small business groups operating at the local level or in rural areas in India Indonesia Thailand Malaysia Korea and China A section on European entrepreneurs has also been included Indonesia's Small Entrepreneurs Sarah Turner, 2013-12-19 In the context of Makassar on the eastern Indonesian island of Sulawesi the book explores the socioeconomic and cultural relationships that make life for small entrepreneurs in Makassar so distinctive Using a new framework for the study of small enterprises the small enterprise integrative framework this book gives us a greater understanding of the organization and operations of small enterprises in developing countries at both the micro and macro levels The application of this new framework for research reveals the diversity of labour flexibility networking and cluster styles amongst the enterprises studies and the constraints they face for growth Whilst the recent Southeast Asian economic crisis has been heralded by certain commentators as a new era for small enterprises in the region the book concludes that local realities for the small enterprises in Makassar mean that whilst for some it has been a time of shifting fortunes others have continued trading on the margins Chinese Entrepreneurship and Asian Business Networks Thomas Menkhoff, Gerke Solvay, 2012-11-12 The degree to which the extensive business networks of ethnic Chinese in Asia succeed because of ethnic characteristics or simply because of the sound application of good business practice is a key question of great current concern to those interested in business management and economic development in Asia This book brings together a range of leading experts who present original new research findings and important new thinking on this vital subject Based on rich empirical research data and a multidisciplinary explanatory framework this book assesses the role characteristics and challenges of Chinese entrepreneurship and business networks in various East and Southeast Asian countries the People's Republic of China Vietnam Malaysia Singapore Indonesia and Australia Chinese Entrepreneurship and Asian Business Networks demonstrates that Chinese network capitalism is contingent upon for example time place institutional frameworks and that explanatory approaches of Chinese economic behaviour which stress culture and ethnicity are too simplistic Rural Capitalists in Asia Mario Rutten, 2005-08-18 This is a comparative study of small capitalists and rural industrialists in three Asian countries Studies on the entrepreneurial class in South Asia tend to focus on the structural aspects of entrepreneurial behaviour while studies on this class in Southeast Asia tend to focus on cultural aspects of their behaviour In fact this book points to striking similarities between Indian overseas Chinese and Muslim businessmen in Asia similarities usually hidden under variations in analytical approaches Although this study emphasizes similarities within Asia it does not support the view of a specific Asian business pattern different to the rise of non Asian especially European entrepreneurs The findings are of major interest not just within the fields of anthropology and entrepreneurship but to all scholars working on South or Southeast Asia who will find much of interest in the author's observations of variable research results between the two regions Private Entrepreneurs in China and Vietnam Thomas Heberer, 2003-06-01 With this book Thomas Heberer has written the first in depth analysis of entrepreneurs in China and Vietnam Key question raised is the role played by entrepreneurs in the process of the recent astonishing political and economic change Based on a survey among several hundreds of these entrepreneurs the author convincingly argues that this strategic group has a strong desire for a true say in political decision making As a body a strategic group they have indeed through various means come to exercise an important function in political development and change It so becomes clear that over the past decades private entrepreneurs have grown into a primary leading definitely distinct social group in terms of income and social status with considerable influence on all levels of society Merchants on the Mediterranean Despina Vlami, 2023-05-18 How easy and uncomplicated was it for an 18th century medium sized Ottoman trade company to expand its business in the West Which

kind of resources in terms of knowledge information experience contacts and capital could guarantee its successful passage from the business environment of a precapitalist oriental market to that of a major commercial and financial center of western Europe Following the venture of the Ottoman Greek merchants Bartholo and Raphael Cardamici who in the 1760s traded goods between Smyrna Constantinople and Amsterdam Despina Vlami investigates various aspects of the organization and strategy necessary for such an important transition To expand their wholesale trade business to Amsterdam the Cardamicis chose as their local correspondent an experienced and strong minded Dutch merchant Thomas De Vogel De Vogel's letters addressed to his Ottoman clients reveal the course of their business transactions and the making of their personal relationship At the same time they are comprehensive and efficient tutorials on trade business and strategy guiding the Ottoman Greek merchants through the unpredictable and unfamiliar 18th century international business universe

Handbook of Social Anthropology provides the definitive overview of contemporary research in the discipline. It explains the what, where, and how of current and anticipated work in Social Anthropology. With 80 authors contributing more than 60 chapters, this is the most comprehensive and up-to-date statement of research in Social Anthropology available and the essential point of departure for future projects. The Handbook is divided into four sections. Part I, Interfaces, examines Social Anthropology's disciplinary connections from Art and Literature to Politics and Economics, from Linguistics to Biomedicine, from History to Media Studies. Part II, Places, examines place, region, culture, and history from regional area studies to a globalized world. Part III, Methods, examines issues of method from archives to war zones, from development projects to art objects, and from ethics to comparison. Part IV, Futures, anticipates anthropologies to come in the Brain Sciences, in post-Development, in the Body and Health, and in new Technologies and Materialities. Edited by the leading figures in social anthropology, the Handbook includes a substantive introduction by Richard Fardon, a think piece by Jean and John Comaroff, and a concluding last word on futures by Marilyn Strathern. The authors, each at the leading edge of the discipline, contribute in-depth chapters on both the foundational ideas and the latest research. Comprehensive and detailed, this magisterial Handbook overviews the last 25 years of the social anthropological imagination. It will speak to scholars in Social Anthropology and its many related disciplines.

Why Doesn't Microfinance Work? Milford Bateman, 2010-06-10. Since its emergence in the 1970s, microfinance has risen to become one of the most high-profile policies to address poverty in developing and transition countries. It is beloved of rock stars, movie stars, royalty, high-profile politicians, and troubleshooting economists. In this provocative and controversial analysis, Milford Bateman reveals that microfinance doesn't actually work. In fact, the case for it has been largely built on hype, on egregious half-truths, and latterly on the Wall Street style greed of those promoting and working in microfinance. Using a multitude of case studies from India to Cambodia, Bolivia to Uganda, Serbia to Mexico, Bateman demonstrates that microfinance actually constitutes a major barrier to sustainable economic and social development and thus also to sustainable poverty reduction. As developing and transition countries attempt to repair the devastation wrought by the global financial crisis, Why Doesn't Microfinance Work argues forcefully that the role of microfinance in development policy urgently needs to be reconsidered.

Money and Power in Provincial Thailand Ruth McVey, 2001-01-01. Most studies of Southeast Asian economic change focus on the phenomenal growth experienced by a few large cities such as Jakarta, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur, and Singapore. Big business has been viewed as the economic engine fueling the region's growth and prosperity. Studies of the rural areas have concerned themselves with the social and environmental impact of metropolitan growth: villages emptied by migration to the big cities, cultures crushed by tourist development and agribusiness, and lush landscapes destroyed by the devastation of natural resources. The literature reveals that few analysts have examined the middle distance between metropolis and countryside. The contributors to this book have addressed the issue by concentrating on the intermediate level of economic, political, and social life: the world of Thailand's provincial cities and market towns In the past decade the rise of frequently violent competition for business and political leadership in the Thai provinces and the growing importance of provincial support for national powerholders has drawn attention to the way in which these town and village centers are being transformed by capitalist development This volume brings together some of the research inspired by this drawing on a variety of disciplinary approaches national backgrounds and sites of study Contributors Daniel Arghiros Chris Baker Sombat Chantornvong Kevin Hewison Jim LoGerfo Ruth McVey Michael J Montesano James Ockey Pasuk Phongpaichit Maniemai Thongyou Yoko Ueda Slum Tourism Fabian

Frenzel,Ko Koens,Malte Steinbrink,2012 This multidisciplinary collection is unique both in its conceptual and empirical breadth Theoretical Developments and Future Research in Family Business Philip Phan,John E. Butler,2008-03-01 Until recently research in family business has been confined to a sub group of entrepreneurship scholars labor economists and sociologists Family business employment is often the only economic option available to migrants the first entrepreneurial experience for young people and a source of an economy s new business creation activities These issues are typically framed in terms of the generational transfer of wealth management succession or the interplay between the economic system of a family and its sociopolitical system The phenomenon is clearly widespread but for some reason continues to be poorly understood We believe that progress on the empirical front has been hampered by a lack of accepted theoretical frameworks For example attempts to employ agency theory geographic agglomeration and spill overs social networks sense making bargaining and other frameworks have been scattered In our view the extant research has not created the theoretic ballast that can withstand repeated empirical verification More fundamentally researchers are beginning to ask Is family business theoretically distinctive or a convenient phenomenon for exploiting familiar theories with new data We believe the time is ripe for a focused look at the theoretical history and prospects of family business research Review articles grounded in economics sociology psychology and political economy and that offer multidisciplinary implications are especially sought Theory based empirical papers are also welcomed We believe that there are exciting opportunities for theory development and so encourage authors to focus on this in their submissions In sum the focus of this volume is on showcasing and advancing the latest research in family business
