Governing Guns, Preventing Plunder Asif Efrat, 2012-07-19 From human trafficking to smuggling small arms to looting antiquities illicit trade poses significant threats to international order So why is it difficult to establish international cooperation against illicit trade Governing Guns Preventing Plunder offers a novel thought provoking answer to this crucial question Conventional wisdom holds that it is criminal groups that obstruct efforts to suppress illicit trade In contrast Asif Efrat explains how legitimate actors such as museums that acquire looted antiquities seek to hinder these regulatory efforts Yet such attempts to evade regulation fuel international political conflicts between governments that demand action against illicit trade and others that are reluctant to cooperate The book offers a framework for understanding the domestic origins of these conflicts and how the distribution of power shapes their outcome Through this framework Efrat explains why the interests of governments vary across countries trades and time In a fascinating empirical analysis he solves a variety of puzzles Why is the international regulation of small arms much weaker than international drug control What led the United States and Britain to oppose the efforts against plunder of antiquities and why did they ultimately join these efforts How did American pressure motivate Israel to tackle sex trafficking Efrat's findings will change the way we think about illicit trade offering valuable insights for scholars activists and policymakers

Professor Gil Loescher Centre for International Studies University of Oxford The militarization of refugees and internally displaced persons IDPs is a persistent and tragic feature of protracted displacement situations especially in Africa The phenomenon threatens access to asylum and protection core pillars of refugee law and the mandates of aid agencies But while policy debates rage over how best to disarm refugees and prevent them from destabilizing neighbouring states there is surprisingly little evidence explaining why displaced people arm themselves or precisely how militarization affects hosting communities No Refuge analyses the experience of refugee and IDP militarization in several African countries affected by and emerging from civil war including Guinea Rwanda Uganda and Tanzania It provides a considered overview of the historical political and regional dimensions of refugee and IDP militarization in Africa as well as international and national efforts to contain it
