Reading Appalachia from Left to Right Carol

Mason, 2011-02-23 In Reading Appalachia from Left to Right Carol Mason examines the legacies of a pivotal 1974 curriculum dispute in West Virginia that heralded the rightward shift in American culture and politics At a time when black nationalists and white conservatives were both maligned as extremists for opposing education reform the wife of a fundamentalist preacher who objected to new language arts textbooks featuring multiracial literature sparked the yearlong conflict It was the most violent textbook battle in America inspiring mass marches rallies by white supremacists boycotts by parents and strikes by coal miners Schools were closed several times due to arson and dynamite while national and international news teams descended on Charleston A native of Kanawha County Mason infuses local insight into this study of historically left leaning protesters ushering in cultural conservatism Exploring how reports of the conflict as a hillbilly feud affected all involved she draws on substantial archival research and interviews with Klansmen evangelicals miners bombers and businessmen a who like herself were residents of Kanawha County during the dispute Mason investigates vulgar accusations of racism that precluded a richer understanding of how ethnicity race class and gender blended together as white protesters set out to protect our children's souls In the process she demonstrates how the significance of the controversy goes well beyond resistance to social change on the part of Christian fundamentalists or a cultural clash between elite educators and working class citizens The alliances tactics and political discourses that emerged in the Kanawha Valley in 1974 crossed traditional lines inspiring innovations in neo Nazi organizing propelling Christian conservatism into the limelight and providing models for women of the New Right My Father's Shadow David L. Dudley, 2016-11-11 In My Father's Shadow David L. Dudley explores a line of African American men's autobiographies starting with Frederick Douglass and moving on through Booker T. Washington, W. E. B. Du Bois, Richard Wright, James Baldwin, Eldridge Cleaver, and Malcolm X. In life, these writers did not enjoy normal relationships with their fathers, who were all unknown, absent, or abusive. Damaged and damaging father-son relationships in childhood spill over into adult personal and artistic relationships, clouding and complicating the already complex issue of identity that lies at the core of any autobiographical endeavor. Dudley identifies a kind of intergenerational Oedipus conflict: each rising autobiographer seeks through his text to displace his predecessor in order to gain imaginative space for himself as well as a position of authority in the black and sometimes white community. As each writer strives to come to terms with the powerful father figure in the black male autobiographical tradition, he also wrestles with the larger issue of his own identity in relation to the literary and cultural traditions in which he lives and writes. Dudley also traces the triumph of these writers as they establish their own identity in the face of great personal and societal odds. My Father's Shadow is an important contribution to the study of African American literature, history, politics, and culture. It will also serve as an examination of the experiences of seven writers as they struggle with what it means to be a black man and a black writer in America.
