

Teaching Philosophy Template

Areas to address in your Teaching Philosophy:
My aspirations/goals/objectives: • as a teacher: (i.e., encourage mastery, competency, transformational learning, life-long learning, general skill transference of skills, meaningful learning, critical thinking, etc.) • for your students: (See examples above) *Describe and give example(s)
What methods will I consider to reach these goals/objectives? (i.e., your beliefs regarding learning theory and specific strategies you would use...such as case studies, group work, simulations, interactive lectures, learning/reading circles, etc. You might also include any new ideas/strategies you have used or want to try) *Describe and give example(s) of strategies/practices that you prefer.
How will I assess student understanding? (What are your beliefs about grading...norm-referenced or criterion-referenced? What different types of assessment will you use...traditional tests? Alternative assessments such as projects, papers, panels, presentation, etc.?) *Describe and give example(s)

Education, Philosophy and Well-being Judith Suissa, Carrie Winstanley, Roger Marples, 2014-08-21 John White is one of the leading philosophers of education currently working in the Anglophone world Since first joining the London Institute of Education in 1965 he has made significant contributions to the landscape of the discipline through his teaching research and numerous publications His academic work encompasses a broad range of rich philosophical issues ranging from questions surrounding the child's mind through the moral and pedagogical obligations of teachers and schools to local and national questions of educational policy In this volume international contributors address key issues in the philosophy of education touching on significant contemporary concerns and demonstrating the breadth and influence of John White's work Each chapter critically examines builds on and pays tribute to John White's unique contribution considering how his work has impacted on the discipline of education as we know it today Topics covered include policy and the role of philosophy of education liberal education the aims of education moral education leadership Education Philosophy and Wellbeing will appeal to postgraduate students and academics in the fields of history policy education studies and philosophy as well as to policy makers educational administrators and teachers

The Teaching and Practice of Professional Ethics John Strain, Simon Robinson, 2005 Gathers together some of the contributions made to the First International Conference on Teaching Applied and Professional Ethics in Higher Education This book seeks to answer what the demands for more ethics mean It is useful for those involved in ethics in professional life and in the teaching of professional ethics in universities

Critical Reflections on Teacher Education Howard Woodhouse, 2022-09-28 Critical Reflections on Teacher Education argues that educational philosophy can improve the quality of teacher education programs in Canada the United States and the United Kingdom The book documents the ways in which the market model of education propagated by governments and outside agencies hastens the decline of philosophy of education and turns teachers into technicians in hierarchical school systems A grounding in educational philosophy however enables future teachers to make informed and qualified judgements defining their professional lives In a clear and accessible style Howard Woodhouse uses a combination of reasoned argument and narrative to show that educational philosophy together with Indigenous knowledge systems forms the basis of a climate change education capable of educating future teachers and their students about the central issue of our time
